Daly City Man Pleads Not Guilty to Murder Charge

Alan May, 34-year-old television broadcast engineer charged in the shooting death of a San Francisco woman in Daly City Saturday, pleaded not guilty Monday to a murder charge.

Municipal Judge S. Jose de Larios released May on his own recognizance in the South San Francisco courtroom in which the arraignment was held.

He ordered May to appear Sept. 3 for a preliminary hearing.

May, an employe of KPIX in San Francisco, was taken into custody Saturday after he allegedly fired a .22 caliber handgun at what he reportedly thought was an intruder, missed and struck a bystander outside his home at 38 Hampshire St., Daly City.

The victim, Doris Ann Dede Williams, 26, was hit by the slug in the left breast about 2:45 p.m. Saturday.

She was pronounced dead on arrival at Mary's Help Hospital at 2:55 p.m.

Ms. Williams was an employe of the Chronicle Braodcasting Company. She had resided at 1711 Baker St., San Francisco.

Detective Harry Lax said the victim had gone to May's home Saturday with several friends, including May's ex-girlfriend, Beverly Stevens.

Ms. Stevens, an employe of KBHK, accompanied by her three-year-old daughter, and five friends, wanted to pick up her belongings and move into a new home in Pacifica.

When there was no answer to her knock on the door she reportedly called the landlord who informed Ms. Stevens that the lease was still in her name.

Dennis Leong, one of Ms. Stevens' friends, volunteered to climb through a rear bedroom window and release the chain latch on the front door.

As Leong stepped into the house, he spotted May lying on a bed wearing a set of stereo earphones.

May jumped to his feet, demanding to know who Leong was, Lax related.

May then allegedly picked up a handgun and chased Leong toward the front door of the home.

Leong opened the front door with such force he snapped the chain and ran outside with May in pursuit, Lax said.

It was then that May allegedly fired the shot that missed Leong and struck the Williams woman, Lax said.

New School Chief Sees Need for District Goals

After an extensive selection process involving 50 applicants, the Jefferson Elementary School Board of Trustees last Wednesday named a veteran San Jose school administrator as the new district superintendent.

Herbert J. Hemington, 41, an assistant superintendent at the Oak Grove School District in San Jose the past six years, replaces Keith Breon, who will leave this summer.

The tedious method of filling the $31,000 a year position, which included both community and professional input, was done so carefully as to even impress Hemington.

Besides the obvious challenge of the job, Hemington said "one of the reasons I wanted to work here was because I was so impressed with the thoroughness of the interviewing process." He praised the extent of community involvement and said the school district should be commended for its dedication in the selection process.

Hemington said he felt the board chose him because "they recognize in me a strength and willingness to work with people, an ability to identify the needs of the youngsters, and a willingness to build programs to meet these needs."

One of these needs is money, which is why the school district is now considering requesting a tax override for the November ballot.

Hemington said it is important to work with the community in explaining the needs and sharing the information on the financial situation. "Without the community realizing the need, we are not going to pass an override election," he said.

The new superintendent also sees the need for the school district to have an over-all educational philosophy and major educational goals. Hemington conducted a district-wide three year study in 1969-72 at Oak Grove, in which surveys were taken of the community to determine educational goals and objectives for the district.

Although he said it was important to establish priorities and needs, Hemington said he could not comment on whether such a study would be conducted at JESD until he could learn more about the district.

Hemington went to the Oak Grove district in 1964, serving as principal for four years until becoming assistant superintendent in 1968. During his 10-year stay, Hemington saw the district bloom from three to 19 schools.

Prior to 1964, Hemington was a vice principal at the Alum Rock Elementary School District in San Jose for two years. He was also a teacher-principal at Bonita School in Santa Maria, Calif. from 1957-60 and teacher-vice principal at Mt., Eden Elementary School District in Hayward from 1960-62.

Hemington received a bachelor of science degree in education from the University of Oregon in 1955; a master of arts from California Polytechnic State University in 1960; and is currently working for a doctorate in school administration at the University of Pacific.

Hemington spent 13 years in the U.S. Army as a company commander and staff officer.

In applying for the superintendent position, Hemington included comments on his educational philosophy. Among his comments were:

"Schools are for children. However, the purposes, designs, and functions of education transcend the abilities of any one person or group of people, and can be realized only through the combined, cooperative, and continuing caring and working of all sectors of the community.

'Helluva Fistfight' In Brisbane

Police from five San Mateo County law enforcement agencies were called out to quell a disturbance in a Brisbane bar shortly after midnight Saturday morning.

Four persons were arrested and a fifth was sent to Mary's Help Hospital for treatment of a scalp laceration.

In addition, Clifford J. Mozzetti, of Johnson Street, Pacifica was charged with assault and battery and disturbing the peace, Brisbane police said.

Mozzetti allegedly punched Brisbane police officer Steve Stanton in the nose during the fracas involving some 15 to 20 persons at Dick's Tower, and suffered a cut scalp while being subdued by police, officers said.

The fight started, police say, when three men and a woman tried to enter the country and western style bar about 12:10 a.m. and security guard William W. Rolles asked for identification.

Rolles is a private security guard hired to insure persons entering the bar, which features live western music, are of legal age to drink.

Police said the guard was not satisfied with one person's identification and refused the group entrance.

That's when the argument started.

Between 15 and 20 bar patrons decided to offer their help to the security guard.

That's when the fight started, police said.

Within minutes, the entire bar erupted into one

DEADLIEST WEAPON
Police say the nunchaku, easily manufactured, is a deadly weapon in hands of today's youth. Descriptive material in magazines shows how to choke, break an arm or neck, or simply lay open a person's head with the nunchaku. Assemblyman Louis J. Papan (center) looks over magazine article on how to "disable" a person with the sticks, while detective Terry Hanebeck, (right) holds custom-made nunchaku. Capt. # DC Chief Answers Charge

Acting Daly City police chief David Hansen Thursday told Mission Merchants Association members that the Southern Hills section of the city has suffered the least amount of crime in that community of some 72,000 persons.

"This is not to say Southern Hills doesn't have burglaries, but our records indicate they have the least amount of such crimes," Hansen said.

Hansen's comments came in response to criticism leveled against his department at a recent council meeting by a resident of the Southern Hills area who said his district suffered from poor police protection and even slower response from fire fighting units.

Edwin Roesch, of 150 Ardenale Street, Daly City strongly objected Monday to the city assuming responsibility for police and fire protection in the Crocker Industrial tract near Brisbane when they allegedly cannot offer adequate protection to Daly City residents.

Roesch is president of the Brisbane Fire Fighters Union, local 1725, the Post learned.

His department stands to lose manpower as a result of a new contract entered into between Crocker Land Company (Guadalupe Valley Municipal Improvement District) and Daly City.

Hansen told the merchants, during their regular meeting at the Serra Bowl, Daly City's percentage of "cleared crimes" is 31 per cent — some three per cent above the national average.

He said the low crime ratio in the Southern Hills area is in part due to "close cooperation between us and the Southern Hills Homeowners Association."

During the meeting, a burglary prevention presentation was made by Steve Lowe of the North San Mateo County Crime Prevention Unit.

This special unit is made up of officers from Daly City, Pacifica, San Bruno and South San Francisco.

Redevelopment Guidelines Ok'd

Daly City's redevelopment guidelines were approved last week and sent to the Planning Commission, but not before there was considerable give and take between a newly-appointed member of the committee and redevelopment staff planner Don Ciucci.

Charles White, owner of White Lumber Company on Junipero Serra Boulevard in the redevelopment target area, reportedly came to the meeting "loaded for bear," one committee member explained.

Specifically, White, who also happens to be Mayor McRobert Stewart's employer, wanted to know exactly what was meant by "commercial" in the land use proposals.

White feared the commercial designation, rather than "light industrial" might exclude his company and force him to relocate.

Ciucci explained that the project area committee's guidelines were merely a broad proposal statement of goals and a possible means to reach these goals.

The matter would go before planners at a later date and amendments to the guidelines could be made at that time, Ciucci said.

Later, Ciucci told the Post there is some zoning of light industrial use designations in the Geneva Avenue area of the city near the Cow Palace, and the Balboa Building Materials Company — about a block from White Lumber —is also zoned C-1 and C-2.

A "C-2" designation is for heavy industrial.

Balboa has this land use designation due to on-site mixing of concrete, it was understood.

White's property is partially zoned commercial (C-1) and I-D (interim district).

The commercial zoning represents some 70 feet fronting Junipero Serra Boulevard where White has a retail outlet, while the remainder of his property is in the interim district zone.

An Interim District can be used for a variety of purposes, but a use permit must

Board OKs New Colma Flood Plan

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors Tuesday opposed a recommendation that the county award a contract for design of the first half of the proposed Colma Creek flood control project.

At the same time, the supervisors shelved a bond proposal to finance the work that would have appeared on the November ballot.

County Manager M. D. Tarshes and County Engineer S. H. Cantwell Jr. recommended that the engineering firm of Wilsey and Ham be retained at fees totaling not more than $450,000 to design the initial $4.5 million phase of the $8 million project.

The two officials recommended against submitting the proposed $11 million bond proposal to finance complete flood control project from the bay to El Camino Real in South San Francisco and that the project proceed on an abbreviated, pay-as-you-go basis.

Reason for recommending against the general obligation bond proposal, Cantwell reported, is that the tax rates in the zones of benefit to retire the bonds would be double the rates originally anticipated.

The current tax rates in the three zones are 12, 24 and 36 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. These rates would remain in effect over a 20-year period or until it might be decided to submit a general obligation bond proposal at a later date.

The $8 million project will provide channel improvements from the bay to a point near Oak Street and Mission Road.

Under the pay-as-you go proposal, the county and the flood control zone cities of South San Francisco, Daly City, San Bruno, Pacifica and Colma will advance a total of $4 million over the next three years to get the project underway, with the additional $4 million to come from the tax imposed in the flood control zone.

State Outlaws Sale of The Deadly 'Nunchaku'

By FRANK LaPIERRE

A generation ago, the deadliest weapons around were homemade "zip" guns and chain lengths taped at one end to insure a good grip.

In recent years, with the mounting popularity of Oriental martial arts, a new and even deadlier weapon is being made by kids of all ages — the "Nunchaku."

It doesn't take any skill, to speak of, to make this killer weapon.

A short five inch piece of chain and two sticks and a person is in possession of one of the deadliest weapons ever devised for hand-to-hand combat.

And for those unenlightened enthusiasts who don't know how to make or use the "nunchaku," there are countless magazines on sale at local bookstores.

These low cost pulp magazines explain in pictorial detail just how to snap a wrist, break a neck, choke the life from someone, or smash a persons face.

Until passage of Assemblyman Louis J. Papan's bill (2571) made sale, possession or manufacture of these sticks illegal, a person merely had to clip out a coupon and mail it with proper remittance to any one of a dozen retail outlets to receive his (or her) very own nunchaku.

Papan pushed the law after local police began finding the sticks on youth, and after seeing the results of what a couple of swipes from a nunchaku could do to a person's face.

The beginning of the end for nunchakus started in May of 1973 with the arrest by Daly City police of two juveniles on burglary and possession of prohibited weapons charges.

Each had a nunchaku tucked away on his person, according to detective Terry Hanebeck.

When the pair went to court, the judge convicted them of the burglary charges but threw out the possession of dangerous weapons charge, pointing out the law was not clear regarding possession of nunchakus.

Specifically, section 12020 of the State Penal Code did not prohibit by name the nunchaku sticks, the judge decreed.

As a result of this ruling

NEW BEAT

Under terms of an agreement signed recently by Daly City and the Crocker Land Company's Guadalupe Valley Municipal Improvement District, Daly City will provide police and fire protection to the Industrial Park. The city will receive $109,000 in the calendar year 1975 and $115,000 the following year for its services to the district.

There's Growth on S. Bruno Mountain

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Created by an act of the State Legislature in 1959, the Guadalupe Valley Municipal Improvement District has since grown from a rock strewn field into a modern industrial park with an estimated assessed valuation of in excess of $22 million.

Crocker Industrial Park, as the GVMID is called, houses 60 of the largest companies in the United States and covers an area of some 450 acres, with room for expansion.

Located on the eastern slopes of San Bruno Mountain, the industrial park and its support facilities — which include a sanitary treatment plant and water distribution system — provides employment for between 3,500 and 4,000 persons.

At one time, the entire area was wholly-owned by Crocker Land Company.

In recent years, some lots have been sold off to other companies. There are now five owners in the tract.

The tax rate is levied by a three body Board of Directors made up of owners of the property.

In the tax year 1973-74 the GVMID budgeted some $700,000 for services. This included water, street maintenance, fire and police protection and sewage disposal services.

The district buys its water from San Francisco (Hetch Hetchy) and provides sewage treatment not only to its own park, but to the adjacent city of Brisbane.

To meet its budget, the district board set the tax rate last year at $1 per $100 of assessed valuation, according to M. Sherman Eubanks, chairman of the GVMID Board and president of Crocker Land Company.

Funds are "recaptured" from property owners and the City of Brisbane by charging for certain services such as water and sewage treatment.

Police and fire protection services, however, are contracted out.

For several years Brisbane had responsibility for safety protection in the tract, but the GVMID this month signed a new agreement with Daly City for the services.

It was estimated by Eubanks that the Crocker Industrial Park now pays the county $2.2 million in property taxes.

Those areas outside the tract, specifically San Bruno Mountain and an adjacent rock quarry, pay some $1,000 daily in various taxes.

The District Board is made up of Ed Behrens, of Crocker Land Company, George Ditz, president of Foremost McKesson and Eubanks.

Foremost McKesson, Crocker and AMFAC (a Hawaiian-based development firm) are now planning development of a portion of San Bruno Mountain in conjunction with San Mateo County planners.

The development and taxation of holdings within the Crocker Industrial Park is similar to taking money from one pocket and putting it into another.

Crocker owns the land and, in most cases builds to suit. It then enters into a lease with a company that may range from 10 years to 25 years for larger companies and from one to ten years for small office holders. It also sets taxes on itself, in effect, and collects the taxes.

It sets its own budgets, pays its bills for furnishing certain municipal services to the companies, and pays county taxes.

The sewage treatment plant that pumps wastewater to San Francisco for discharge, street fire hydrants, street improvements, and municipal improvements normally associated with a development are paid for by the property owners, not with government funds, Eubanks is quick to point out.

Additionally, the developer-property owners of the park collected about $165,000 from themselves last year in property taxes to meet the budget.

Assessments are set by the County — not the property owner.

Once the assessment figure is received, the GVMID sets its tax rate to meet the budget, Eubanks explained.

New companies are already under development in the tract, it was explained, and a new Bank of America branch office will soon be built at the entrance to the park.

County 'Office on Aging'

A proposed action plan calling for creation of a county office on aging to develop and implement five areas of service to senior citizens is being considered by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

A delegation of senior citizens headed by Paul Cowgill, chairman of the county commission on aging, appeared before the board July 23 to submit the action plan. The board will review the proposal before submitting it to the state office on aging in hopes of securing a federal grant to help implement the plan.

Cowgill said that a total of 80 volunteers worked on preparation of the plan and that questionnaires had been sent to more than 2,000 of the county's 65,000 residents over the age of 60.

Top priority, the action plan says, is the development of a countywide local bus system so that senior citizens can reach shopping areas, medical facilities and centers of senior citizen activity.

Legislation Rapped

Current and pending local, state and federal legislation affecting the home building industry came under heavy criticism Wednesday in San Mateo, where the president of the California Real Estate Association warned of impending governmental takeover.

C. Larry Hoague, of Downey, speaking before a joint meeting of five Peninsula Boards of Realtors, warned his colleagues of the burgeoning growth of environmentalist-sponsored legislation in Washington and Sacramento, saying the "individual regulations are all right by themselves, but become overwhelming" when looked at as a total program.

"We have an avalanche of legislation aimed at the real estate industry in Sacramento," Hoague declared. "One example is AB 1144, which proposes that developers not only dedicate (on-tract) school sites to municipalities, but also would require the developer to construct the school."

"Are you aware of how much that will cost the buyers of the homes?" he asked. "Since they've gone that far, I'm surprised they don't take it a step farther and require the developer to pay for the entire educational process for the next 30 to 40 years."

Hoague was also critical of the governmental maze of agencies which must give their blessings to development.

"If the mechanics of development are so complex the small developer can't afford to fight his way through and gives up, it will raise the price of the commodity and will price several million low-income Americans out of housing."

"When this occurs, the government then says the private sector has failed, and then government takes over," Hoague warned.

He urged the real estate people to join local and state political action committees sponsored by the various Boards of Realtors.

Harbor District Lawyer Criticizes LAFCO

Lawyer James M. Dennis, representing the San Mateo County Harbor District, charged Monday that the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) failed to perform its statutory duties during proceedings to dissolve the harbor district.

LAFCO has recommended to the county board of supervisors that the harbor district be dissolved and the district's functions be taken over by San Mateo County.

LAFCO's recommendation followed charges by several cities and special districts that the harbor district had abused its taxing authority. Several cities then asked to withdraw from the harbor district.

Dennis filed a protest with the board of supervisors Monday and requested that LAFCO's recommendation be denied, contending that LAFCO violated two sections of the Knox-Nisbet Act of 1965 and also failed to prepare an environmental impact statement in accordance with the provisions of the California Environmental Quality Act.

"In spite of the fact that the Knox-Nisbet Act has been on the books for almost 10 years, LAFCO has still not adopted standards and procedures for evaluating of proposals involving dissolution of a district," Dennis charged.

The harbor district's legal counsel also protested LAFCO's claim that dissolution of the harbor district would have no significant effect on the environment.

"LAFCO apparently either chose to ignore the provisions of the Public Resources Code dealing with environmental impact statements or failed to take into account the total scope of activities in which the district is involved," Dennis argued.

He claimed that failure of LAFCO to perform those activities and develop facilities in accordance with plans of the harbor district can have a serious environmental effect and therefore an environmental impact statement is required.

The Board of Supervisors will hold a public hearing Aug. 8 at 10 a.m. and then decide whether to deny the dissolution request or approve it. Should they decide the latter, the dissolution question will be put to a public vote on the Nov. 5 general election ballot.

Brisbane Fistfight

"helluva fistfight," one Brisbane police officer said in describing the scene.

Before the sawdust had settled, some 20 police officers from Daly City, South San Francisco, California Highway Patrol and the County Sheriff's Office responded to aid Brisbane's four police officers.

Arrested was Gerald Shepard, 24, of 29 Clinton St., Redwood City and his wife, Kathleen Diane Shepard, 21, a telephone receptionist.

Shepard, who listed his occupation as "disabled," is a Canada College student, police said.

He was charged with disturbing the peace, assault and battery, resisting arrest and malicious mischief. The latter charge was tacked on after Shepard allegedly tore some wood panels from a police station wall in Brisbane.

Mrs. Shepard was charged with disturbing the peace, resisting arrest and being drunk in public, police said.

Also arrested were Roy C. Hansen, 27, a Canada College student of 537 B Fourth St., Redwood City (disturbing the peace and assault and battery) and Orlin Hanson, 30, of 537 A Fourth St., Redwood City (disturbing the peace and assault and battery).

Crash in Dense Fog

Dense fog on Skyline Boulevard was blamed for at least five accidents involving some 20 cars in Pacifica within an hour Tuesday.

The southbound lane of Skyline was closed for a short time, police said.

One accident involving four vehicles on Sharp Park Road was cleared quickly. The other four were on Skyline, between Hickey Boulevard and King Drive. The accidents began at 7:50 a.m., and by 9 a.m. the fog had started to left, police reported.

Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City reported three victims of an accident on Skyline and Hickey, Matilda Martinez, Blanca Martinez and Guy Brewer, were in the emergency room.

A 23-year-old El Granada man was hurt in a three-car accident on the Coast Highway in Pacifica Monday.

Gary Scott was reported in good condition at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City.

be obtained first, city hall officials explain.

White wants the "light industrial" written into the policy statement and the 20-member committee recommended the matter be referred to City Atty. Albert Polonsky for his opinion.

Dino Donati motioned for approval of the guidelines and the matter was seconded by Lowell Caulley.

It was the third draft for the committee and sets preliminary plan outlines and policies, land uses and impacts of redevelopment in the area.

The matter now goes before the five-member planning commission. This body can make amendments without going back to the committee.

Once the planners have taken action on the guidelines it will be sent to the city council and, eventually, to the Redevelopment Agency.

The RA is made up of city councilmen.

Nunchaku

Capt. Richard Sims and detective Hanebeck met with Papan and asked his cooperation in pushing through a law on the weapon.

After being briefed by law enforcement agencies around the county, Papan agreed to introduce strong legislation to outlaw nunchakus.

On April 4, 1974 — three months ago — Assembly Bill 2571 was signed into law, amending sections 12020 and 12029 of the State Penal Code.

With a few exceptions it is now a felony to possess, manufacture or sell nunchaku sticks.

The exception is that the nunchakus can be sold to registered schools teaching martial arts.

The deadly nunchaku now takes its proper place alongside blackjacks, sawed-off shotguns, slungshots, billies, sandclubs, sandbags and brass knuckles in the "prohibited weapons" category.

First Step Taken Toward Setting Up Affirmative Action Program

The Jefferson Union High School Board took a first step toward establishing an Affirmative Action Program recently by approving a much-debated policy statement in a tedious, sometimes confusing voting procedure.

The policy statement, which, in effect, expresses the school district's desire to achieve affirmative action, had to be passed before the board would consider the components of the actual program. After approving the statement, the board tabled further consideration of the program until Aug. 5 so board members could study the proposals.

The board has had to delay approval of the one page statement for over two months because of objections of a citizens-teachers committee, which was set up by members of the community to give input to the board. The committee has disagreed on the wording of parts of the statement.

A decision by the board to approve the statement had been held off in an effort to allow the citizens group to meet with the district's subcommittee in drawing up a final "working copy" for consideration by the board.

But approval of that "working copy", with a few changes, wasn't easy.

Julius Castelon, speaking for the citizens committee, told the board "we have agreed to quite a few of your recommendations, now we're asking you to approve some of our desires." He said the committee would not accept any changes in the policy statement.

The "changes" he referred to involved the addition of certain wording, that the citizens committee wanted to retain and the board wanted to delete, including a wish to have an Affirmative Action Officer and Advisory Committee to implement the program.

After squabbling over the words among themselves and with members of the audience, the board finally decided to take separate votes on seven different parts of the policy statement. Such a voting procedure on just an eight paragraph statement caused confusion as board members continually had to double check to ask what part they were voting on each time.

The only addition made on the statement was the inclusion of the physically handicapped, at the suggestion of board member Edward Solomon, among those people who would be provided equal job opportunities.

Eliminated was the Affirmative Action Officer and the Advisory Committee. However, Board Chairman John Sloane said such an officer and committee were not clearly ruled out, since both suggestions appear in the actual seven page program. The vote of the board, though, was 4-1 against that section of the proposal in the policy statement. Ruth Boudinot cast the only vote for it.

Changes Made in San Bruno Mountain Plan

Some comparatively minor changes are being proposed by Visitacion Associates in its master plan for development of San Bruno Mountain.

In a review Wednesday before the county planning commission, the developer suggested a plan amendment to place no single-family homes in the Owl and Buckeye Canyon area, leaving seven acres for industrial use and the balance in permanent open space.

A slight decrease, in square footage, is being proposed for the town center commercial area.

The amended plan did not include planning for the portions of Reservoir Hill and Visitacion Valley which extend into Daly City.

Asst. Planning Director William Powers said that the developer is discussing proposed use of the area with Daly City officials and that the areas probably will be reintroduced to the master plan at a future date.

Daly City Woman Held On Narcotics Charges

A Daly City woman was arrested Thursday and more than an ounce of heroin seized by agents of the San Mateo County Narcotics Squad backed by Daly City police, it was reported.

Arrested and charged with five counts of possession of heroin for sale was Paullete Davis, 24, of 607 Sylvan Ave., Apt. 4, according to police.

Assisting county narcotics agents Kirby and Riccardi were Daly City police officers Don Cubic and Steve Powell.

Road Action Is Delay After Angry Protest

An angry and dramatic outburst by 50 South San Francisco residents protesting a proposed extension of Eucalyptus Avenue forced the city's Planning Commission to postpone a decision on the matter last Wednesday night.

The residents' arguments spanned from suggestions of alternate plans to display of pictures of bloody automobile accidents, some pnvolving children, that they said would happen if the extension were granted.

At issue before the commission was the extension of Eucalyptus Ave., from its present deadends near Park Way up to Stonegate Drive and the partially completed Stoneridge housing development. The extension is needed to provide that area with a secondary access road, especially for emergency vehicles. The only road into the project now is off Hillside Blvd.

Lucille Creamer of 529 Eucalyptus Ave., just a block from the proposed extension, cited four reasons the residents of the Park Avenue Heights neighborhood were opposed to the plan.

The reasons were that the Eucalyptus Avenue extension is not conducive to heavy fire equipment: other easier and better access routes are available; more traffic congestion in the Park Avenue Heights area would occur; and the possibility of children from nearby Parkway School being hit by autos while crossing the street would be increased.

It was the last reason that led to the dramatics.

Mrs. Creamer said that with the planned expansion of Chestnut Ave., into main thoroughfare, Eucalyptus will become the only access route to the school. The entry gate to the school is a short distance from the intersection of Eucalyptus and Park Way.

"With 828 cars (based on the number of people who would live in the completed complex) going up and down Eucalyptus," Mrs. Creamer said. "What odds of safety does that give our children? Aren't their lives as important as the residents of the complex?" she asked the commissioners.

"What will happen to the children when the red blooded dare devils come careening down Eucalyptus? Please don't make victims of our children like those pn these tales of horror," Mrs. Creamer pleaded.

It was at this time that five other residents, including one young girl, marched to the front of the room and held up the gory, graphic photographs before bewildered, sympathetic-looking commissioners. Later, Director of Public Services Frank Addiego told the residents the safety of school children could be protected by the use of traffic crossing guards, signs, and other measures. That assurance was met with loud disapproval.

Besides that emotional view, though, the residents also strongly emphasized the other points.

Because of the deep grade from the Eucalyptus Ave. d3adend up to Stonegate Drive, the emergency vehicles may not be able to make the climb, Creamer said. But SSF Fire Chief Lawrence Toellner said he favored the Eucalyptus extension as the best route of all those proposed. Toellner said it was not too steep for the trucks.

The city staff said it had considered seven or eight other alternatives. The residents were pushing two particular alternate plans — the extension of either Larch or Hemlock Ave. to Stonegate. Mrs. Creamer said if the main entrance to the complex was blocked off in an emergency, it would be faster to proceed a short way down to Hillside Blvd. to the Larch or Hemlock entrance than to have to go all the way around to Eucalyptus.

As for the increased traffic congestion, the residents claimed the extension would be a natural shortcut for the Stonegate residents who head toward the El Camino Real or Bayshore South. "Why go around the hill to Hillside Blvd. when they can so easily come careening down Eucalyptus and zoom across the intersection of Park Way and Eucalyptus," Mrs. Creamer said.

Addiego's contention that it would not become a thoroughfare drew more reaction from the audience. One resident stood up and yelled, "Everyone uses main access streets. It's going to be a thoroughfare, not an offstreet."

The residents also said it was necessary to get traffic figures for the area during school days and on rainy days when there is increased congestion due to parents picking up their children.

As a result, the commission voted to delay a decision until those figures are compiled, mea ing that no action will be taken until after September.

It was also suggested that the extension would serve as a fire road only, though that idea was not consic ~ d very accptable by either Addiego or Toellner.

After the traffic figures are taken, a study session will be held to further discuss the access routes. Although the city staff indicated that Eucalyptus is still the best plan. Mrs. Creamer said the residents are determined to stop that extension.

"I know the people of Park Way," she said, "and when they are up in arms they fight to the last ditch."

The Stonegate Ridge development was originally approved in 1966, and included plans for access roads. However, late last year, the developer, E. G. Coopman, deeded eight acrew of the land to open space. This change eliminated approximately 160 proposed units on the Hillside just above Park Avenue Heights, and resulted in modifications of the overall development pattern.

Thus, the planned access roads were deleted, leaving the Eucalyptus Ave. Extension as the only "practical access connection available to the Stonegate area," according to the proposal put before the commission.

Water Prices Hiked For County Users

San Mateo County water users will soon have to pay higher prices — perhaps as much as 20 per cent higher.

Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco Wednesday indicated the rate may be 20.5 per cent for water users outside San Francisco, and 14 per cent for water users within their city limits.

They did so by rejecting a proposal for an across-the-board 17.4 per cent increase by a 10-1 vote. The 17.4 rate increase had been proposed by the city's Public Utilities Commission, and Supervisor Terry Francois found this an acceptable figure.

Other supervisors said they favored the proposal of the PUC consultants, Brown & Caldwell, for a lower rate increase inside the city, and a higher hike for outside water users.

The supervisors referred the matter back to the Public Utilies Commission for reconsideration, a move which may delay adoption of new water rates for a few weeks.

San Francisco spokesmen said the system supplies water to about 2 million people, less than half of them inside San Francisco city limits.

Most of the system's customers live in Alameda, Santa Clara, or San Mateo counties.

Papan Urges Seniors To File for Tax Refund

Assemblyman Louis J. Papan last week issued a reminder to senior citizens, who have not yet applied for Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance, that Aug. 31 is the final day to file for the tax refund.

The necessary forms, and help in filling them out, are available through Papan's district office.

Assemblyman Papan stated that his office has already assisted many senior citizens in filing for a refund. But, he says, the Franchise Tax Board has so far received only 200,000 claims — less than 50 per cent of all eligible senior citizens.

An estimated 460,000 people 62 years or over can now quality for property tax assistance. This includes 60,000 on public assistance who were previously ineligible.

Last year nearly one-quarter of those eligible missed the deadline and thus deprived themselves of a tax advantage which they rightfully deserve.

The program applies to those occupant homeowners who reached age 62 no later than Jan. 1, 1974, and whose total household income for 1973 did not exceed $10,000. The refund is a percentage of the homeowner's 1973-74 property tax.

For details, contact Papan's district office at 343B Serramonte Plaza, Daly City, or telephone 756-6400.

Kyriakis Heads Cities Council

Victor G. Kyriakis, mayor pro tempre of Daly City, was elected chairman of the North San Mateo County Council of Cities at a meeting held in San Bruno recently.

The organization is made up of seven cities in the North County area, including Millbrae, San Bruno, South San Francisco, Daly City, Burlingame, Pacifica and Brisbane.

The organization is formed for the purpose of solving problems of mutual interest and concern to the member cities, and to promote legislation beneficial to each.

CKyraiakis succeeds outgoing chairman, Mayor William J. Crosby of Burlingame.

Meeting on Assessments In Pacifica

Is Pacifica property assessed fairly?

An ad hoc committee will meet with representatives of the county assessors office in Pacifica today to seek an answer to that question.

Several city councilmen have been claiming that undeveloped property — consisting of at least half of Pacifica's area — has been assessed at a lower rate than developed property.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at Nick's Restaurant. Among those who had expressed an interest at attending have been representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, Board of Realtors and various homeowner associations.

The city staff has prepared a list of the city's 15 major pieces of undeveloped property, which will be compared to 15 pieces of developed property, according to City Planner James Miller.

Heading the committee is Vice-Mayor Stan Farber, with members: Councilman Sid Lorvan, Realtor Barbara Carr, Chamber President Nick Gust, City Atty. John Sherman, Director of Community Development Les Clark, and citizen-at-large, John Lewis.

The meeting is public, according to City Manager Dave Thompson. Since the committee is a fact-finding body only, however, discussion is expected to be confined to the committee members.

"Any citizen can speak to the county assessor or his representatives," Thompson explained.

The assessor's office has maintained that many undeveloped properties should be assessed at a lower value because the Coastal Conservation Commission, the Hillside Review Board and new city ordinances have hampered development of these properties.

The Media

The media have arrived!

This is a fact that becomes apparent from looking into the number of recordings that are available for nonreaders.

There is a course in English speech with examples, classroom exercises and evaluations, all on record. There are courses in the new math that are designed to help students fill in the gaps in their understanding. One record deals with the language of mathematics, another with arithmetic operations, another with numeration bases, and still another with geometrical concepts.

A record album has been produced to teach the fundamentals of wrestling to beginners. To make it more useful a filmstrip and a teacher's manual have been produced. For less athletic people there is a recording on how to jump the rope to the rhythm of 17 stimulating tunes that will expel ugly fat from the jumper's body.

Still another recording provides music for synchronized swimming. Another adapts jazz to isometrics, another gives a course in physical education with the music of the Beatles accompanying the instructor's commands. Yet another record sends the listener through authentic Afro-rhythms that have been selected to give the listener an "imaginative response."

Watergate, with all its complications and all that it means to America, is the subject of a Folklore Record. Among other things it contains President Nixon's Watergate speech of April 30, 1973, and James McCord's testimony on the break-in.

Another Folkways album entitled "Hail to the Chief," is an inquiry into the powers of the President. Here is a course in political science that consumes many hours of University lectures. Still another recording in political science is a Kaydon Record entitled: "The Living Constitution of the United States." It answers such questions as what type of bills will not originate in the Senate? What four reasons may not be used for denying a person the right to vote, and what would happen if both the president and the vice president died?

"A magic formula for personal achievement," is one of a series of recordings that has been designed to help today's adult "keep pace with the great pagent of industrial and scientific progress." Other titles in the series from the Success Motivation Institute are entitled, "How to Master Time Organization," "How to Develop the Power of Enthusiasm," and "How to Think and Grow Rich."

History is enlivened with records that reproduce the voices of presidents, or narrates such things as battles and strikes. "I was there" "dramatices the most far reaching events in world history. There is a series entitled, "Adventures in Negro History," another, entitled "The Generation of Israel," analyzes the erruptive Middle East from the Isralelis' point of view.

"How to Quit Smoking Without Using Willpower" has become a best-seller. So has Bill Cosby's "Talks to Kids About Drugs." An album called "The American Family Guide to Drug Abuse," presents 12 authorities who direct their remarks "so the average parent may know as much about drugs as the average pusher." Its theme is "get to your kids before somebody else does."

Truly, recordings along with tapes and films have joined books as a means of informing American people.

Look for video tape next.

250 Persons Attend Ed Bacciocco Dinner

More than 250 persons attended a fund-raising dinner at Kee Joon's restaurant in San Mateo Tuesday for supervisor-elect Edward Bacciocco, Jr.

The $25-a-plate dinner featured Chinese cuisine and attracted civic, government and business leaders from throughout the Bay Area.

Bacciocco was successful in his bid for the San Mateo County supervisorial seat over Ged Day last March. He will assume office in January.

The newly-elected supervisor said he would stress brevity in speeches during his term of office.

"I vow to hold all my speeches to not more than 10 minutes — more likely five minutes," he said prior to delivering a brief speech on the role of government in today's political world.

"Service, as the highest ideal of able men and women holding public office, is our only guarantee to enlightened political leadership," Bacciocco said.

"In the future, I will be alert to (the people's) concerns. In return, I ask you to assist me in a unified effort to guard the well-being of all the people in San Mateo County," he concluded.

The New Unleaded Gasoline

By LORENE BEASLEY of BBB Barometer

The apperance of new unleaded gasoline pumps across the country is perplexing the American motorist, especially, since this new fuel costs two to three cents a gallon more than its leaded counterpart.

The person who owns a pre-1975 model that does not need to use the new fuel may begin to wonder if he should begin using it. Or, if he buys a new car in the fall, he may wonder should he continue to use leaded gasoline because it costs less, or because his favorite neighborhood station doesn't sell the new, unleaded gas.

The use of unleaded gasoline is not harmful if used in any pre 1975 car and should perform as well as leaded gas provided that the octane rating is as high as in the leaded gas. There should be no problem substituting one for the other because the new unleaded fuel is required to have an octane rating at least as high as that required for the old, leaded regular gas.

The question is: Is it worthwhile to change to the new and more expensive gas even though your car does not require it? The Federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) points out some definite advantages. The agency's main point is that unleaded gas not emit dangerous lead particles into the air through automobile exhaust.

Unleaded gas should reduce automobile maintenance cost as spark plugs should last longer with lead removed from the gasoline. However, despite these advantages the EPA is reluctant to advise ALL motorists to immediately begin to use the unleaded fuel.

It is a new product and initial supplies may not be great enough to serve all cars that do not need it along with the 1975 models that will have to use it.

It will be absolutely imperative for a 1975 model to use the unleaded gas to keep the anti-pollution equipment functioning. Nearly all 1974 model American-made cars will be equipped with a catalytic converter which will change engine exhausts into harmless cabon dioxide and water. This converter is "poisoned" by lead in gasoline — even by as little as the amount in one tankful of leaded gas — and will no longer do its job.

The motorist will not be able to detect any difference in car operation or exhaust odor. Only a test of the automobile exhaust will show whether the converter is working. Most states are expected to eventually perform checks of the exhaust, perhaps as a part of their periodic car safety inspection. Replacement of an exhaust converter may cost up to $150.

There will be a safeguard device on all 1975 models and later year care: the gasoline tank inlet under the gas cap will be smaller than those on present cars so that the gasoline pump nozzles used for leaded gasoline will not fit into the cars. Pumps for the new unleaded gas will have smaller nozzles that will fit.

The converters will replace the cumbersome, often ill-working anti-pollution devices on 1971 and later model cars, thereby allowing engines to be tuned for smooth and efficient operation rather than emission control. Gasoline mileage should increase with 1975 catalystic equipped cars.

Hospital Guild Pledges Donation for Expansion

The Mary's Help Hospital Guild has pledged $300,000 to the hospital's Expansion Fund, Sister Florence Urbine, D.C., President of the hospital's Board of Directors, announced recently.

Mary's Help Hospital has set forth plans for a $15 million expansion project, and has undertaken a voluntary capital fund drive to expand and renovate hospital facilities.

Mary Short, immediate past president of the Guild, commented that this is the largest commitment the Guild has ever undertaken, but, she said, "We recognize the need and are willing to dedicate our efforts to the completion of the expansion project."

Fran Gaffigan, recently elected president of the 250 member Guild, spoke about the challenging role of outpatient services in the hospital. "The growth of outpatient services and needs has been tremendous, with some departments' workloads having increased 50 per cent or more in the last five years. Before committing ourselves, we studied carefully the hospital's plans and were convinced of the need for expansion." She explained that the hospital's expansion plans reflect a national trend towards greater utilization of ambulatory services as an alternative to hospitalization.

In addition to its fund raising activities, the Mary's Help Guild provides a number of services for patients at the hospital. Volunteers deliver mail and flowers to patients, assist in the clinics, escort patients, and take care of many small but valuable chores.

Among the fund raising activities the Guild plans for the coming year are a Christmas sale of articles made throughout the year by Guild members, a Christmas cocktail party, a Day at the Races and the spring Fuchsia Ball. One of the major fund raising events on the Guild calendar is Guild Day at Serramonte Center, scheduled for Oct. 3, with a luncheon-fashion show and display booths representing both the hospital and the Guild.

According to Mrs. Gaffigan, the women of the Guild plan to add new activities in the coming year to raise funds for the hospital's expansion program.

DONATION

Sister Florence Urbine, D.C., president of the Board of Directors of Mary's Help Hospital, receives a pledge of $300,000 from Fran Gaffigan, president of the Mary's Help Guild, and Daly City resident Mary Short, immediate past president of the Guild.

Ishida-Kakiuchi Rites Performed

The San Mateo Buddhist Church was the setting for the marriage of Naomi Sachiko Ishida and John Masao Kakiuchi who are now making their first home in South San Francisco.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Ishida of San Mateo, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Akira Kakiuchi of San Francisco.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Las Vegas and Los Angeles.

Lovanne Heath

Would you care to have an Englishman come home to dine with you for a night or two?

Well, if that sounds enjoyable you might be interested in calling up the Oakland offices of the San Francisco Bay Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, and offering to share your home with an English Rover (Scout).

The local council will host 14 young men between Aug. 3 and 8, and they hope to be able to place all of them in homes with American families during the local stopover.

Home hosting entails meeting the British Scouts when their plane arrives from Los Angeles, providing accommodations in your home, serving meals and providing some sightseeing opportunities as well as giving the young men an opportunity to observe an American family in its natural habitat. Two members of the party are adult leaders. The boys range in age from 19 years to 22 years.

The council would appreciate families with older sons who are involved in Scouting or persons who are interested in Scouting. Since the Rovers are an older group they are capable of being on their own for some of the sightseeing as long as the host families help to orient them.

THE FRIENDS of the Library may not be holding regular meetings during the summer but they are still keeping busy.

During the Fourth of July Festival at the Westlake Shopping Center President Mrs. John Connolly and several others manned a Teddy Bear Toss booth.

Joining in the fun and helping make a nice profit for the Friends of the Library fund were two members of the Connolly clan, Seona and Sean, and Mrs. James Hough, MRS. William Bagnall, Mrs. Thomas Jovick and Mrs. Robert Enright.

HAVE YOU BOUGHT a "Willie Oscar" yet? Willie is the Wider Opportunities bear patch which is being sold by Girl Scouts to raise money to send several local girls in the Senior Scouts to special programs designed to widen the girls' scope of involvement, interest and participation.

Glynnis Heissenbuttle is going to Texarkana to work with 39 other scouts who will plan and supervise a day camp for handicapped younger girls. Accompanying her will be Glenda Freestone from South San Francisco. Katherine Fleming of San Bruno will participate in "Earth 'n' Us" in Philadelphia.

Sally Heaney of South San Francisco and Darice Robinson and Leslie Schwarzbach of Daly City are attending "Women in Action" to be held in Washington, D.C., where they will be exploring ways for expanding career opportunities for women in today's world.

If you would like to help send these girls to these programs the Willie Oscar patch is available for only 50 cents plus postage when you write to Mrs. Roz Marino, 91 Lausanne St., Apt. 2, DalyCity 94014.

SATURDAY the Fifty Plus Club will see "what's new" in San Francisco during a day long excursion about "the city."

The day will start with a ride on Bart from the Daly City station to the downtown station, then will follow tours of the recently restored old mint at Fifty and Mission Streets, the Embarcadero Plaza, the Haas Lilienthal home and the Wine Museum.

Luncheon will be in the Hyatt Regency Hotel.

Cost per person will be $5.25, lunch not included. The bus will leave Pacifica at 8:45 a.m. Saturday. Call Mrs. Elizabeth Funderburg for any additional information.

Races ranging from $1 upward, are being solicited from localites who would like to help with the Friends Outside Family Camp fund.

The wives and children of men in prison are treated to five days in the Valley of the Moon as a part of the Friends Outside program to help families which have been deeply disturbed and disrupted by this type of tragedy.

Cost to Friends Outside is $48.90 per person, and this year the organization will need $4,685 to fill all the requests. To date only $1,300 have been collected and time is growing short as camp will begin on Aug. 24.

Mrs. Louise Enberg, executive director, feels deeply that this is an important undertaking in the rehabilitating and rejuvinating the hospital's spirits of family members.

"For the mother, it is the only chance at a vacation with no cooking, dishes, washing or housework. Most of the mothers are on welfare or work full time to support families so they cannot afford to hire a baby sitter for even one night out. For the children the camp may be the only chance for them to leave the city where they were born and it offers a constructive alternative to a summer spent playing in the streets," according to Mrs. Enberg.

Donations of money, sleeping bags or bedding of any kind may be sent to the offices of Friends Outside, 3101 Nineteenth Avenue, San Francisco.

For information or to learn about pick ups for donations call 661-6900.

Peninsulans Say Vows At Home

The wedding of Lynda Jean Fluitt and B. Don Cooley took place Saturday at 2:30 p.m. at the South San Francisco home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack R. Oldenstam.

The double ring ceremony was conducted by Judge James Duvaras of the Santa Clara County Superior Court. A reception followed at Crystal Springs Golf Club.

The newlyweds have delayed their honeymoon until October when they will travel to Tahiti. They will make their first home in Millbrae.

For her wedding, Lynda wore a gown of white batiste featuring a flounced full skirt paneled with imported lace, inter-lacing at the scoop neck and puffed sleeves. Entwined in her hair was stephanotis, and she carried a bouquet of similar flowers interspersed with gardenias and Cecil Brunner roses.

Charlene Gross of Belmont was the maid of honor, and Michael Townsend of Millbrae served as best man.

The bride, a graduate of Merritt College in Oakland, has been an airline stewardess for the past eight years. Her husband was educated in Minnesota and has served with the armed forces including Vietnam duty.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

Here we are on the last Wednesday in July, rather at the midpoint of vacation time. For the kids the thrill of being out of school has finally worn off, (For parents the thrill of having the kids home all day long wore off in about three days.) and they are now at the stage of, "There's nothing to do. What's new to do? What's to eat?"

To the moan that there's nothing to do, there's always, "Go cut the lawn." To the other two questions, how about, "Go bake some cookies."? It's something new to do and it provides something to eat.

Oatmeal cookies are great favorites and when we jazz them up with salted peanuts and chocolate bits they are really super. And the recipe makes a super amount too, about eight dozen.

SUPER OATMEAL COOKIES

- ½ cup shortening
- ½ cup margarine
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 eggs
- 1½ cups all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 3 cups rolled oats
- 1 6½-oz. can salted peanuts
- 1 6-oz. package chocolate bits

In large mixing bowl, cream together the half cup each margarine and shortening and the one cup each granulated and brown sugar. Add the teaspoon vanilla and two eggs. Beat well (about 3 minutes at medium speed). Sift together the one and one half cups flour, one teaspoon soda. Add to creamed mixture and mix well. Thoroughly mix in the three cups rolled oats, 6½ ounces peanuts and 6 ounces chocolate bits. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto lightly greased cookie sheets. Bake in 350-degree oven 10 to 12 minutes. Makes about 8 dozen.

If you feel like a really togetherness cookie baking afternoon, sugar cookies are the most fun. Use all the fancy cookie cutters, do some free hand and as a special treat let each cook make a "handie." (Trace around your hand in the dough. It makes pretty big cookies, depending on the size of the hands, but it's fun to do.)

SUGAR CUT-OUT COOKIES

- 1 cup shortening
- 4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1½ cups sugar
- 2 teaspoons soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 6 tablespoons milk
- 2 eggs
- ½ teaspoon almond extract

(Make the dough early in the day, for it handles best when chilled.)

Sift the four cups flour, one and one-half cups sugar, two teaspoons soda and half teaspoon salt into large mixing bowl. Add the cup shortening and cut in with pastry blender or knives until consistency of small peas. Combine the six tablespoons milk with the two eggs and one-half teaspoon almond extract. Beat lightly with a fork and pour into flour mixture. Mix well. Chill about 2 hours.

Heat oven to 350 degrees. On lightly floured board roll out about one-third the dough at a time, keeping the rest in refrigerator. Roll cookies ⅛" to ¼" thick. Cut into shapes.

Using large spatula arrange cookies on lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake 350-degree oven 8 to 10 minutes. Cool and frost with decorators icing or sprinkle with sugar before baking.

DECORATORS FROSTING

- 2 tablespoons evaporated milk
- 1 to 1 and one-third cups sifted confectioners' sugar
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- Food coloring

Heat the two tablespoons milk and add the one cup powdered sugar and one-half teaspoon vanilla, add a few drops food coloring. Spread on baked cookies.

BIRTHDAY LUNCHEON

Referral Center In Fourth Summer

The South San Francisco Information and Referral Center, 1974 Youth Employment Program is in the midst of its fourth summer.

Program Director Stan Johnson and Work Experience Coordinator Bob Wassick consider it the most successful thus far. Approximately 210 junior and senior high school students between the ages of 14 and 18 have taken advantage of the program, which allows students to gain on-the-job training and summer money while earning 10 units of school credit.

The Summer Youth Employment Program is sponsored by the South San Francisco Information and Referral Center in conjunction with the Work Experience Program of the South San Francisco Unified School District.

According to Johnson, the $115,814 total funding for this summer's program was derived from five sources: $69,322 from the Neighborhood Youth Corps of San Mateo County, $10,439 from the San Mateo County Economic Opportunity Commission, $30,000 from the City of South San Francisco, $5,837 from the South San Francisco Unified School District and $216 from the District's PTA Council.

"The most important factor in the entire program is the funding," commented Johnson. "Without the cooperation of these various agencies, the program, of course, would be nonexistent."

Johnson said in the program students work for the school district as gardeners, janitors, or tutors. The City of South San Francisco gain the student's services in such areas as communications, the library, fire station, park summer programs, the Marina ad Treatment Plant..

The students also work for independent non-profit organizations such as Kaiser Hospital, St. Vincent de Paul and the Boys Club.

"The program serves two vital purposes," Johnson said. "It serves to give these individuals the opportunity to gain valuable on-the-job training with school credit while providing the citizens of the community with the services of additional help at no added cost.

"I look at the success of the program and the valuable services it provides and only hope that the agencies which have so graciously helped us in the past will continue to do so in the summer of 1975," concluded the director.

Fuchsia Society Sets Meet

The Pacifica Branch of the American Fuchsia Society will hold its annual show Aug. 11, at the Park Pacifica Plaza Mall, at Oddstad and Terra Nova Boulevards in Pacifica, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. There is no charge for admission.

Jack Billmire, who is president of the organization and also chairman of the show, has announced many interesting features of the event.

A wide variety of fuchsias grown by members of the loc l branch will be on display. Plants ranging in size from small cuttings to those in large pots will be offered for sale.

Members of the group will be on hand to give information and to answer questions regarding the culture of fuchsias.

Every half-hour a fuchsia plant will be given away as a door prize. Tickets elevate free and one need only to be present to win.

The fuchsia is the official flower of the City of Pacifica and it is particularly well adapted to the gardens of this area.

Seniors Urged to File for Refund

Assemblyman Louis J. Papan last week issued a reminder to senior citizens, who have not yet applied for Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance, that Aug. 31 is the final day to file for the tax refund.

The necessary forms, and help in filling them out, are available through Papan's district office.

Assemblyman Papan stated that his office has already assisted many senior citizens in filing for a refund. But, he says, the Franchise Tax Board has so far received only 200,000 claims — less than 50 per cent of all eligible senior citizens.

An estimated 460,000 people 62 years or over can now qualify for property tax assistance. This includes 60,000 on public assistance who were previously ineligible.

Last year nearly one-quarter of those eligible missed the deadline and thus deprived themselves of a tax advantage which they rightfully deserve.

The progrma applies to those occupant homeowners who reached age 62 no later than Jan. 1, 1974, and whose total household income for 1973 did not exceed $10,000. The refund is a percentage of the homeowner's 1973-74 property tax.

For details, contact Papan's district office at 343B Serramonte Plaza, Daly City, or telephone 756-6400.

Bruno to Report Tax

The City of San Bruno will report to the county that it will raise $1,187,811 from local property taxes.

The figure includes $48,000 for the addition of three firemen. To raise this amount the city must add approximately four cents to the tax rate, which currently is 93 cents per each $100 assessed valuation.

The decision to add the extra firemen and to raise the property tax rate came during a regular meeting of the City Council July 22 The council had talked about hiring the three firemen at an adjourned meeting July 15, when council members asked City Manager Gerald Minford to continue discussing the matter with Fire Chief Herb Freitas.

At the July 22 council meeting there was no item on the agenda to indicate that the City Council planned to take action on the proposal to add the firemen, because, Minford explained after the adjourned meeting July 15 discussion of the issue continued until late Friday — one day after the meeting agenda was written.

Minford explained that sometimes not all city manager recommendations get on the agenda due to late discussions of some items by the city staff.

No city is compelled by law to place any item on the agenda, nor, in fact, to have any agenda at all, City Atty. Joe Galligan advised.

Harbor District Fights for Its Life

By ALAN QUALE

The San Mateo County Harbor District has begun a strenuous campaign to fight for its life.

Faced with the possibility of being dissolved, harbor district officials have dispatched press releases to local newspapers and sent letters to city officials urging their support.

A rally to save the harbor district from possible dissolution was staged Wednesday night at Coyote Point Yacht Club. Officials from the area yacht and marina associations joined forces with boat enthusiasts to muster a defense force.

The continued existence of the Harbor District, however, is only half the fight.

Should the district be dissolved as has been recommended by the San Mateo County Local Agency Formation Commission, harbor district officials fear their ambitious plans to construct 1,100 boat berths and a marina inside Half Moon Bay's Pillar Point Harbor might go down the drain.

The district, they note, has already spent $663,000 on studies and engineering plans for the development of the Pillar Point Harbor project and secured a $4.6 million state marina development loan.

"A great deal of time, money and effort have gone into reaching this point in the harbor's history," said Harbor Commission President Jack C. Bishop.

He also stressed that the district's three-cent per $100 assessed valuation capital improvement tax will be needed for only a short time in the future to complete Pillar Point Harbor.

"Allowed to complete its program, the harbor district can provide, in less than a decade, a viable revenue- producing harbor that will provide a significant improvement in the county's tax base," Bishop said.

Harbor commissioners predict that the facility, if completed, has the potential of developing a $15 million per year commercial fishing industry.

"Now is not the time to dissolve the San Mateo County Harbor District," Bishop firmly concluded.

The fight over whether the district should continue or be mothballed, will be the subject of a public hearing before the County Board of Supervisors Aug. 8 at 10 a.m.

The public hearing promises to be as stormy as the ocean swells outside the district's tenuous headquarters at Pillar Point.

Opponents of the harbor district charge that the district has abused its taxing authority. Ten cities and special districts have asked to withdraw from the harbor district.

Several landlocked cities and municipalities located away from the Coastside have questioned the benefits they would receive from the Pillar Point Harbor project.

All of the county's cities and towns have been requested to submit to the board before its public hearing their stands on whether or not the harbor district should be dissolved.

Following the Aug. 8 public hearing, the Board of Supervisors has two alternatives. They may disapprove the proposed dissolution, dropping the matter there, or they may order the dissolution subject to confirmation by county voters on the Nov. 5 general election ballot.

In making its recommendation that the harbor district be dissolved, the Local Agency Formation Commission recommended that the district's functions be taken over by the county.

Harbor commissioners claim, however, that the county cannot automatically assume permits already given the harbor district from local, state and federal agencies to begin the Pillar Point Harbor project. District officials note that the only two permits yet to be issued them for the project are from the Army Corps of Engineers and the Regional Coast Conservation Commission.

Furthermore, the harbor commissioners claim the county cannot enter into the same kind of state loans the district has already received for the harbor project.

County Mayors Back Regional Agency Bill

By VERN KROGH

The San Mateo County Council of Mayors — in a major breakthrough after years of debate — Friday night supported legislation that would create a Bay Area governmental agency that would deal with most regional problems.

In endorsing Assembly Bill 2040, proposed by Assemblyman John Knox of Contra Costa County, the mayors overcame arguments that such an agency would create a "third level of government" between the state and counties.

Endorsement of the legislation at a meeting in San Mateo was by a 9-2 vote, with two cities — Half Moon Bay and Pacifica — abstaining.

Councilman Nat Landes of Woodside carried most of the argument in favor of the legislation after Mayor McRobert L. Stewart of Daly City, chairman of the mayors' council, questioned if the mayors even wanted to take a position.

Mayor John R. Blackinger of Atherton opened the debate with the brief statement, "Atherton is definitely opposed."

The proposal for a Bay Area regional government has come before the mayors for the past two years without resolution — with both proponents and opponents being about evenly divided.

The argument against creation has been mainly based on the assumption that it would take away local governmental control.

Councilman Warren Steinkamp of South San Francisco objected that Knox' bill would not include all existing Bay Area regional agencies, including that of the Bay Area Water Control Pollution Control Agency, mandated by state legislation.

Landes asserted that over a number of years, similar bills have been proposed in Sacramento — none of which have been acceptable to the entire Bay Area.

"Now we have a plan acceptable to the Bay Area," Landes said. "It will provide regional government that is required."

Previously, Landes maintained, that regional planning was doen through the Association of Bay Area Governments, a volunteer agency which has done a job but "is not acceptable at this time."

Landes argued while regional planning has previously functioned through ABAG, the legislation proposed by Knox is "far superior" to individual regional agencies.

He agreed that while the new Bay Area Regional Planning Agency that would be set up by Knox' bill could not take over all agencies; such as the Bay Area Water Quality Control Board, a state mandated agency; it would take over such other regional problems at those now controlled by the Bay Area Control and Development Agency, the Bay Area Sewer Service Agency and problems of solid waste proposal, water supply, transportation and other mutual problems.

Third Planner Hired By Pacifica

A third planner will go to work for the City of Pacifica Aug. 12. He is Alvin Holman, 26, now a senior planning consultant for a Los Angeles firm.

The city's lack of planners had become an issue last month during city budget work when one planning position was deleted.

However, when a reassessment raised the city's potential income, a third planner was added.

Holman received his bachelor's degree in urban planning from the University of Washington, and his master's degree in public administration from the University of Michigan.

He has produced several studies for the Omaha-Council Bluffs Metropolitan Area Planning department last fall, including neighborhood program development and minority business opportunities.

According to City Planner James Miller, Holman will be an associate planner working on current and advance planning.

Miller said his department has 13 man-years of work to do, much of it on already passed deadlines, some with a Sept. 20 deadline.

Holman will complete the most critical projects.

Also aiding the planning department projects is technician James Norton.

Lester H. Clark, as director of Community Development, heads the department.

Papan Vows to Observe Election Reform This Year

Assemblyman Louis J. Papan last week notified his Republican opponent that he will observe campaign reforms embodied in Proposition 9 in his bid for re-election — even though the Political Reform Act of 1974 approved by voters in June does not become law until next year.

Papan last week received a letter from Gilbert Rodli Jr., his GOP challenger in the November election, suggesting candidates "pledge themselves to live within both the letter and spirit of Proposition 9."

In his reply, the Democratic lawmaker stated he prefers to campaign with emphasis on public service information.

"Both the Service Directory and the Consumer Handbook distributed in my last campaign illustrate my sincere desire to elevate the political process beyond the artificial image building and circulation of trivia associated with electioneering.

"I will be continuing this constructive type of approach in the coming months, and I am delighted you appear willing to cooperate in this effort," Papan wrote.

Papan added, however, that some of the specifics advanced by Rodli differ from the provisions of Proposition 9.

Watermelon Contest at Colma

A successful watermelon-eating contest was the highlight of last week's activities at Colma School.

Winners of the contest were: Little Boys Division: first place, Papa Woods; second place, Richard Davis; third place, Eddie Blandino; Elementary Division: first place, Mike Martinez; second place, Steve Marez; third place, Dennis O'Shea; Intermediate Division: first place, Timmy Barkley; second place, Blair Calhoun; third place, Daljit Grewal; Heavyweight Division: first place, Luis Roel; second place, Gamalieo Gomez; third place, Ricky Martinez; Girls Division: first place, Teresa Davis; second place, Missy Firpo; third place, Alice Davis.

Overall champion watermelon eater of the day was Mike Martinez.

The ping-pong table is getting a lot of use from various "pongers" such as Nicky Huertes, Julio Bulnes, Blair Calhoun, Daljit Grewal. Trip day at Colma School is every Wednesday and the recreation department is inviting all children in the area to join.

George Martin won the Strike-out Tournament after defeating Dave Hirsch. A number of girls are interested in establishing a softball team for 7th grade and under. Any girls interested in joining the team should contact Mike Rasche this week at Daniel Webster.

Again this summer, many varied and interesting trips are planned for Tuesdays. All kids 16 and under are invited to participate in the weekly trips.

FD ROOSEVELT

Playground championships changed hands in free-throw competition at FDR as the third week of the summer program drew to a close. Darryl Jones defeated George Bautista in triple overtime for the seventh and eighth grade championship with 8 out of 10 attempts completed. Other competitors were Byron North, Chico Lewis, Wayne Wynn, Roy and George Bautista.

On the ninth grade and over level, Greg Isom was first followed by Jerry Lewis in second, while Tony Basso again held first place in the third and fourth grade division since he was co-champion with Steven Lee. Other participants were Stephanie Sutti and Tony Lewis. Robert Obregon defeated Sammy Hernandez, Vincent Isom, Romeo Yea and Fred Gurr for the fifth and sixth grade free-throw crown. All competition for championships are held on Friday after the 1 p.m. "Bring your own" barbecue.

Stike out games are mounting with stiff competition being displayed by Wayne Wynn, John Profeit, Mike and Pat Galindo, Peter Ricci and "Big Bare."

In the world of kickball, skill has been exhibited by many good players including Roy White, Gary and Perry Masterson, Richard Reynose, Andrea Daniel, Cynthia Wright, Evonne and Tony Lewis, Stephanie Sutti and many others. Signups for the Wednesday field trips are rapidly filling up.

See recreation leader Tom Nuris for signups, as well as information about the many other activities available at FDR.

GELLERT PARK

Gellert Park launched its first annual shuffleboard tournament with high scoring action and many participants. First place went to Max Edwards. Joe Angulo finished second and Darryl Ashmore placed third. Shuffleboard equipment is supplied Monday through Friday by the Recreation Department.

Softball action was exciting with the development of hitting tting stars Ron Robles, Al Hatter and Lorenzo Balisi. Snooky Norona made some fine defensive plays.

A coloring contest was held for thos 12 and under. Philip Matosich was the winner. Second place went to Madline Perrason, and Derrick Frelot took third.

The crowd was large at the barbecue last week, which now is being held on Fridays at 2 p.m. It is a "bring your own food" affair.

Trip day is Wednesday and signups should be given to Recreation Leaders Dan Cummings and Phil Lawrence.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

Barbecue hot dogs are the highlight every Tuesday with a special games tournament or special event. Big events at George Washington include handball (using a volleyball), coloring, dominoes and games to suit every age group. Miles Sleeth was champ last week beating every competitor including leaders.

Dominoes are very popular. Andy, Pauline and Alex Guitterrez are participants at George Washington on a regular basis.

LINCOLN PARK

At Lincoln Park ping pong has really become the professional sport especially for such experts as Chris Rudolph, Melvin Jones, and Ricky Pagan, each coming in first in the first ping pong tournament of the summer.

The middle of the week brought on a heavy one-on-one basketball contest in which Ned Whitfield, Benny Pace, Darryl Crowder and Andy Driscoll all came in first place.

Colin and Sean Vurek as well as Kevin Yenning and "Slime" Webb are all regulars at the weekly barbecues which are held every Friday.

MIDWAY

Carroms and ping pong are the two favorite activities at Midway. A carroms tournament was held and Larry Saclayan took first place, Joy Cruz, second place and Alfredo Shanklin, third. Other participants in this event were Jeff Dietrich, Sean Curran, William Coming events include a ping pong tournament and strikeout competition. Trips are every Thursday, Contact the leader for information.

M. P. BROWN

At M.P. Brown, barbecues are held in the afternoon several times a week. Chris Amorose, Keith Anderson are two top rated carrom players.

The drawing contest is coming to a close with fine exhibits submitted by Justin Amorose, Paul Culver, Jonathan Yarnold, and Chip Houghton.

OUR LADY OF MERCY

The World Series of Strikeouts at OLM resulted in Doug Price, Keving Lucido, Tommy McNab and John Feeley taking top honors.

PANORAMA

Panorama playground was the site of a scavenger hunt July 19. Winners were James Sirie, David Frena, and Davin Loader in first, second and third places respectively.

WAR MEMORIAL COMMUNITY CENTER

With jumping music and thumping basketballs, the War Memorial summer program swings into mid-season. A full court basketball highlighted last week's activities. In game No. 1, the East Side Bloods edged a tough pick up team 32-28. Greg (Little Cazzie) Morgan, Oliver (Bad News) Harrel, Ollie Jabali and Greg (The Skate) Taylor led the Bloods to victory.

In game No. 2 the Old Timers led by Steve (the coach) Roche, Terry (the bear) Piccardo and Wayne (Big Dapper) Bascom came battling back in the final minutes to upset the Bloods 24-27. Ricky (Fritz) Adams kept the Bloods in the game with several long range bombs.

Last week's trip day saw 27 kids "low ride" to San Mateo Memorial Park. It was reported that hiking and swimming were the major activities. The trip also marked the joyful return of Mar (choo-choo) Coleman to the ranks of War Memorial regular. Mary Kordules won the "skinniest legs trip day" award.

A ping pong tournament is scheduled today. Entrants should be from East Side Daly City to be able to participate. Three age divisions have been set up: Twelve and under, jr. high, and high school. The tourney will start at noon.

A Searsville Lake trip has been scheduled Aug. 1.

Flying Goose Must Wait for Title

Flying Goose of Daly City will have to wait until Friday night to finally settle the North Joe DiMaggio baseball situation.

A victory in the makeup game with San Carlos Service Club would give FG the title. A loss would force a special playoff with San Bruno.

Dale Edleman drove in five second game runs Sunday to give FG a doubleheader split with Lou's 66 of Pacifica. Steve Sbragia's second game homer gained San Bruno a split with South San Francisco.

NFL Strike

If anyone cares what we think of the NFL strike, we think there's a lot to be said on both sides, most of it stupid. So . . . we'd like to see the NFL close down for a year, liquidate, put on a fire sale, have an auction, do something spectacular, and then watch the fun: see how the anabolic-fed tackles and computer-hooked quarterbacks would scramble for non-existent $100,000 a year jobs, and what the club owners would do for tax write-offs. And watch Pete Rozelle start hunting up a public relations job (Do you think USF would take him in?). And watch fans, set free, start watching football for fun again (there will still be the WFL and high school and college football), instead of revenge (on opposition teams, and on their wives). . . .

And if anyone cares what we thought about the All-Star game selections, we thought many of them were stupid, as well, and wouldn't dignify them with a lot of obvious analysis or newspaper space, especially during the newsprint shortage. But we can't refrain from commenting on the single choice from the Giants, Chris Speier. We like Speier as a player, but he truthfully was not having as good a year as three or four shortstops who were passed over.

The other Giant in contention, Bobby Bonds, was also unworthy this year. We know that every team had to have at least one player and that this is why Speier was picked over several more deserving shortstops, but the Giants had a much more viable candidate. We can't understand why Gary Maddox was never considered in the running. Aside from some injuries which have slowed him down somewhat at times, he has been San Francisco's steadiest player, a guy who was hitting and driving runs in when nobody else was, and who is certainly their only regular .300 hitter.

FOR STATISTICS buffs only . . . what position would you say historically has had the lowest fielding percentages? If you don't say shortstop — which gets the toughest plays — you're not a good baseball fan. But by saying that you would also be wrong, because baseball isn't always so logical. Actually, third basemen have consistently recorded lower fielding averages than shortstops . . . And who would have thought that at this point in the season, Atlanta would have a better team earned run average than the Mets? Or, for that matter, that the Giants would, too.

This one isn't purely under the heading of statistics, but it does involve numbers. Remember when the Yankees used the Athletics as a farm team? We wonder if that pattern is developing with Cleveland. The current Indian roster numbers seven ex-Yankees: pitchers Fritz Peterson, Tom Buskey, Steve Kline, Fred Beene; first baseman John Ellis, and outfielders Charlie Spikes and Rusty Torres.

AND NOW for our brief baseball quiz of the week: 1) (This is in seven parts) Who was the toughest batter to strike out last year in the National League? Who was the toughest in the AL? Who was the toughest in either league? Who was the hardest of all-time in the NL career-wise? The hardest, all-time in the AL? The hardest, all-time in either league? Who of the active players has been the most difficult to strikeout during his entire career? 2) Only two catchers have ever led either major league in hitting. Who were they?

ANSWERS: 1) Last year, Felix Millan was the toughest NL hitter to strikeout, as he went down by that route only every 29 times at bat. In the AL, it was Luis Aparicio, at a ratio of 15.1 that also answers the part about who was the toughest in either league. In the all-time category, Lloyd Waner is the NL leader, at 44.9. Joe Sewell takes the prize in the AL with a fantastic 62.5 and that answers the one about all-time hardest to K. Millan is also the champ of low K ratios among active players, as he's seen the third one go by at a clip of only 21.8.

2) Bubbles Hargrave, who in 1926 hit .353, and Ernie Lombardi, who did it twice; in 1938 (.342) and 1942 (.330). Which means that, up to this point, at least, Cincinnati has a corner on that market, since both Hargrave and Lombardi were playing for the Reds at the times they led the NL in hitting.

And this little note should also serve as a reminder that there is no way that Lombardi should be out of the Hall of Fame, not with a 3.06 lifetime batting average and 190 homers. And what many forget is that he was a helluva fine defensive catcher with a shot-gun arm. Never mind his legendary slowness afoot. How many catchers can run?

HS Recreation Softball Gets Underway

The Daly City Recreation Divisions High School Softball season commenced play July 19 with the Linco Continentals rolling over the Untouchables 12-1.

The Continentals rode to victory by a great team effort.

The Bud Bums held on to claim an 11 to 8 victory over the Cubs. For the first four innings the battle was even in this see-saw contest. In the fifth inning the Bud Bums scored two runs to take the lead and then scored two more in the seventh to lock up the victory.

John Moura, Steven Stangen and Ron Portillo all smashed out at least 3 hits for the winners. Jim Espina, Larry Olman and Mike Herbert all hit well for the Cubs in their losing effort.

The outstanding defensive play of the game was turned in by Roy Martelle, as he made a diving catch of a line drive off the bat of Larry Olman.

The Brewers slipped past the Whispers by a final score of 5 to 4.

Brunans U.S. Champs

The Cahill Judo Academy of San Bruno still reigns as the United States Judo Association team champion.

The Peninsula school placed 18 in the championship tournament at Skyline College over the weekend to win the team title for the fourth straight year.

The Hialeah Judo School of Florida finished second with six placers and the Zenbei School of Sacramento took third with six places. There were 725 entries.

Eight of the Cahill places were firsts, three of them defending titles won last year. They were Mike Kessler of Millbrae in the senior 139 division; John LaRochelle of San Mateo, in the 14-year-old heavyweight division and Corinne Kennison of Menlo Park, in the girls 16-year-old heavyweight division.

The new champions from Cahill were David Nugent of Daly City, 16 lightweight, Jessica Lavalle of South San Francisco, 11 lightweight, Dale Kennison, of Menlo Park, 14 heavyweight, Marla Seever of Newark, eight lightweight, Cliff Gosse, Pacifica, 12 lightweight.

Second place finishers: Mile Coleman, San Mateo, second 154 senior; Massy Toffolo, Burlingame, 15 lightweight; Kim Newton, Redwood City, 11 lightweight; Dayna Kennison, Menlo Park, 10 heavyweight; Kathy Guiterrez, Millbrae, nine heavyweight; David Leithner, Walnut Creek, 10 lightweight; Steve Matulac, San Bruno, 11 lightweight; Richie Moss, San Mateo, nine lightweight.

Third place finishers: Elizabeth Maloney, San Bruno, nine heavyweight; Bill Wolfe, Belmont, Seniors 154.

Locals Alive in State Tourney

One San Mateo County fast pitch softball team is still alive and one has been eliminated in the State Championships at Fairfield, which conclude this weekend.

Bucky's of San Mateo, the county's top team, lost its initial game last weekend to Harris Shell of Santa Rosa, 4-2. But Bucky's recovered to stop the Brothers 4, also of Santa Rosa, 4-3, in a loser's bracket game.

Bucky's had been trailing 3-2 in the Brothers 4 game until the bottom of the fifth inning, when third baseman Mike Costanzo crashed a long home run with one man on to provide the winning run. Bill Pickett pitched well and got the win. Bucky's next game will be Friday at 10 a.m. against Harris Shell at Lee Bell Park.

Gingher's Mustangs of Redwood City pulled off the real shocker of the tournament, beating highly regarded Concord Disposal and pitcher John Rebstock 4-3 in eight innings. Going into the bottom of the seventh, Gingher's was behind 3-0, but rallied for three runs to tie.

Claude Northrum came in to relieve Chuck Calderhead on the mound and kept Concord from scoring in the eighth. Then the 'Tangs loaded the bases with none out in the bottom of the inning. After a strikeout, Northrum hit a high chopper to second, high enough for Dan Ipsen to score the winning run.

Culligan on Cup Team

Michael Brannan of Salinas, Tom Culligan III of San Mateo, and Chuck Van Linge of Portola Valley will represent the Northern California Golf Association in the Morse Cup Team Matches that will be played during the Pacific Coast Amateur Championship, August 1-4, in Eugene, Oregon.

Culligan, 32, is no stranger to Morse Cup competition. The former San Jose State golfer competed for the Northern California team in 1969 at the Lakeside Country Club in Hollywood, in 1970 at Vancouver's Marine Drive Country Club and at the Pauma Valley Country Club in 1972, the same year he competed in the famed Masters Championship in Augusta, Georgia.

The Northern California trio is again favored to win the team competition, played during the first two days of the 72-hole Pacific Coast Amateur Championship.

The two best medal scores of each team will count toward winning the Morse Cup.

Baird Leads San Bruno Win

Steve Baird supported his own fine pitching with a homer, double and four runs batted in Thursday night as San Bruno beat San Carlos Rayberg, 9-3, in an inter-league Joe DiMaggio baseball game.

In another inter-league DiMaggio contest, San Carlos Service Club punched across a run in the eighth inning to nip Lou's 66 of Pacifica, 3-2.

Keeping Kids Busy at the Boy's Club

By JACK BIK

Nearly 1,500 north San Mateo County boys are having little trouble keeping busy this summer. They are members of the South San Francisco Boys Club.

The 12-year-old boys club facility, located on the western edge of Orange Avenue Park, is the scene of boys throwing balls, tusseling with each other, and running and yelling. It is even the scene of boys quietly playing table games, or just reading. Contrary to many recreation centers, this kind of activity can be seen almost any time of the day at the Boys Club.

Jim Callahan, educative director of the Boys Club, recalls numerous success stories of his boys.

One boy, Alfonso Iniguez, came to the center a number of years ago, and asked for a job. He had come from Mexico and could not speak English. Former director Fred Koehler put him to work as a custodian. The boy continued high school, learned English, and — inspired by Koehler — continued on to San Francisco State University.

Iniguez is now a teacher at an experimental school in San Francisco, and soon expects to be an administrator. He is also now on the Board of Directors of the Boys Club.

All kinds of boys become members, according to Callahan. Some of the boys who drop in are, inevitably, boys who have been to juvenile hall, and have tremendous problems getting along at school and at home. Sometimes, the entire staff works at helping these youngsters.

"Just sitting and talking with them sometimes helps a lot," Callahan said. "It's better, however, to get a boy active in a constructive program."

The Boys Club has many facilities for youth.

In the $300,000 gymnasium, Gabe Lopez, who has worked for Boys Club for a dozen years, always seems to have games going on. There is also a fully equipped exercise room as well as a boxing ring.

Pride of the arts and crafts center is a collection of power tools worth $1,500 donated by the Sears Foundation. The center operates a fully equipped photography laboratory, a ceramics facility with two wheels and an electric kiln, and employs a full-time arts and crafts teacher.

The well equipped library is also the scene of chess and other table games.

And there are always the special events, Callahan says, including watermelon eating contests, peanut festivals, carnivals, sports tournaments, boxing shows and various field trips.

Last week, 23 Boys Club members left for two weeks for the 2,000-acre Camp Mendocino, near Willets. This camp, owned by the San Francisco Boys Club, provides horses and swimming areas — at a rate of $75 for two weeks. Camperships are provided for those not able to pay that sum.

For some boys, Callahan said, the Boys Club is almost an absolute necessity. Many boys, particularly with the large number of broken families, have no fathers nearby. With boys being dependent first on their mothers, then on woman teachers, many have no male figures in their lives to identify with.

"It seems that even a family with both mother and father living at home," Callahan added, "the father often has little time to give his boy."

Next addition to the Boys Club program, Callahan predicted, is girls.

Girls already are taking part in the teen program, including dances, parties and other social events the club holds. Callahan would like to convert a former garage at the club into a girls gymnasium to involve girls in more of the club's program.

The South San Francisco Boys Club was established a dozen years ago when South San Franciscans of different backgrounds got together and decided they had to have the club.

Leaders of South San Francisco's many industries, its unions, neighborhood leaders and women's clubs joined in the fund-raising program needed to finance construction of the building. The club's financial backing continues today with the same widespread community support.

The parking lot is filled when adults crowd the center on Monday nights for their weekly money-raising games night. Frequent adult dances are held for the club.

About a third of the club's support comes from the Board of Directors, a third from the Dads Club, and the rest from the United Crusade. The club operates on an $81,000 a year budget.

"It's really a grass-roots effort," Callahan says. "When the people of the community want something, they get together — and make it happen."

Route 1 Improvement Priorities Are Listed

What are the most important improvements that can be made to Pacifica's main street — Route 1?

Pacifica city councilmen settled on a priority listing July 22, but only after rearranging the listing proposed by B. C. Bachtold of the State Department of Transportation.

There seemed no disagreement over Priority 1 — to limit the traffic movements at Westport Drive, at the south end of the freeway portion of Route 1, to right-turn-access only. Bachtold proposed rerouting all left-turn and cross traffic movements to a safe-crossing at the Sharp Park Road intersection.

However, Priority 2, placing traffic signals at the Crespi Drive intersection, was changed to Priority 6.

"But the city has been pressing for that since 1969," one city official said.

One councilman objected to another signal so close to the one at Linda Mar Boulevard. City Manager Dave Thompson pointed out that residents of the new senior citizens' Ocean View Inn, at Crespi, had supported the signals.

Councilman Sidney Lorvan said he was disturbed by several references to widening the Coast Highway from four to six lanes. He conceded that widening was needed, but suggested that wider lanes, a divided road or shoulders could be more important. The references to six lanes were eliminated, despite Lumley's assertion that something should be done about the daily traffic tie-ups at commute time on the highway.

Other priorities were:

Second: Build two southbound left-turn lanes from Route 1 to the Rockaway Beach Avenue-Fassler Avenue intersection.

Third: Include the improvement of the Reina del Mar (Vallemar) intersection within the widening of Route 1.

Fourth: The state will start accident and delay analysis of traffic at the San Pedro Avenue intersection, at the southern end of town.

Fifth: The state will start a traffic study of the need for widening Route 1 from Sharp Park Road to Rockaway Beach Avenue.

Girl Hurt

A six-year-old Sparks, Nev., old Sparks, Nev., girl, visiting in San Bruno, was struck by a car about 1:30 p.m. Monday as she darted compound onto the El Camino Real, police said.

Pamela Susan Williams was admitted to Peninsula Hospital, Burlingame, with a compound fracture of the left leg, according to authorities.

Police said the young girl ran out in front of a car driven by Patricia Ann Malone, of 2370 Toyon, of 2370 Toyon Way, San Bruno, who was southbound on El Camino Real.

SSF Hires New City Planner

South San Francisco's new city planner, David Hale, took over his duties this week.

The youthful planner previously served on the Oakland planning staff eight years. He received his undergraduate degree in city planning from the University of Virginia 11 years ago, and two years later his master's degree in city planning from the University of Chapel Hill in North Carolina.

His first job was as an associate planner at Independence, Mo., where he worked on development of that community's first general plan. He was a neighbor of former President Harry S. Truman, Hale recalls.

"I came to the West Coast to spend a couple of years here to see if I liked it. I found I did."

While in Oakland, he became president of the Northern California section of the American Institute of Planners, 1971-72. He worked on advance planning, general plans, urban beautification and on Oakland's Model Cities program.

He applied for the South San Francisco post, he said, because the city's ideal size and well-rounded character represent a challenge. He is trying to organize the work of his new office, which has been vacant for nearly a year, and to learn more about the community.

In planning a city, he said, it obviously is easier to take a new piece of land and start from scratch. Planning a nearly completed city such as South San Francisco, requires a special technique. Planning is concerned with people rather than with physical things, he pointed out.

"A city renews itself at the rate of about two per cent a year. Thus, you have a new city in 50 years," he added.

Planning for the desired goal becomes the technique of properly guiding the city's day to day activities during those 50 years, Hale said.

It is important, Hale said, for the planner to relate to the people of his community. He hopes to be able to do this in the coming years, as he is making an intensive study of the 66-year-old community.

Council Will Meet With Library Board

The South San Francisco City Council and the city's Library Board will hold a joing study meeting at 7:30 p.m., today.

Principal topic to be discussed is that of joining the Peninsula Library System. South San Francisco and Menlo Park libraries are the sole holdouts in the county, according to Librarian Robert Alvarez.

Under this system, residents may take out books in any city, and return them to whichever library is most convenient.

They also will discuss a proposal of the Soroptimist Club to acquire the historic Martin Home on Grand Avenue for storage of the historic collection presently housed in the West Orange Avenue Library.

The status of the old library on Grand Avenue will be discussed. The building, next to City Hall, is said to require considerable updating.

Also to be discussed are the duties, responsibilities and authority of the Library Board. Two years ago, remuneration for the board was cut off.

South San Francisco Dedicates Its 'Navy'

South San Francisco's official family gathered recently to dedicate the city's "navy" — a 32-foot harbor boat named "Oyster Point II."

The boat replaces a surplus Coast Guard vessel condemned as unsafe.

Oyster Point II will be used for harbor patrol and for rescue work. It can carry eight persons comfortably — or can cram in 20 people to the gunwales, according to Harbormaster Hansen.

It eventually will be equipped with a fire hose. Men from the nearby industrial branch firehouse will be trained as marine firemen, and will be qualified to supplement the boat's crew when harbor personnel are shorthanded, Hansen said.

Taking part in the dedication were Miss South San Francisco, the Sea Scouts drill team, Mayor Terry Mirri, Assemblyman Louis Papan, U.S. Navy Chaplain Frank Morton, and Lura Sellick, secretary of the Parks and Recreation Commission, who broke the traditional bottle of champagne over the vessel's prow.

Members of the Oyster Point Yacht Club served refreshments.

Papan promised his backing of South San Francisco's goal to obtain state and federal aid to develop the harbor.

Dump to Be Permanently Cleaned Up

South San Francisco's Oyster Point Marina and former dump will be permanently cleaned up, according to terms of a settlement filed last week in San Mateo County Superior Court.

Terms of the settlement call for the scavenger company to pay $18,000 into the State Water Pollution Cleanup and Abatement Account.

The city agrees to a permanent injunction against polluting the Bay, with a time schedule for pursuing clean-up and preventive measures to end erosion of the former dump's perimeter dikes and leaching of sulfides and other substances into the bay waters.

Regional Water Quality control Board Chairman Sidney S. Lippow said "the settlement by the city and the Scavenger company marks a successful attempt by this Board to curtail and prevent further damage to the Bay.

"I have served on this Board for many years, and have followed this case carefully. This should put an end to pollution in an area which has been a problem for a long- long time."

Water Quality Board staffer William Gingrich said the problem stemmed from an improper facing of perimeter dikes, which allowed erosion and leaching, although the site has not been used as a dump since 1970.

Clubhouse Hours To Be Extended

Lincoln Park Clubhouse will be extending its hours to senior citizens, it was disclosed last Wednesday at a meeting of the Daly City Recreation, Parks and Maintenance Commission.

The new clubhouse hours will be extended one hour, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Julius Castellan, of the Senior Citizens Food Council, had originally requested the clubhouse hours to be extended from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., but accepted the ruling of the commission when it was noted that those hours would conflict with youth groups which might want to play baseball at the Clubhouse, during those hours.

Checkers, chess and sewing for senior citizens, along with a balanced meal are being ffered daily at the Clubhouse

'Chinatown:' More Contrived Than Suspenseful

Because the work of actor Jack Nicholson and director Roman Polanski is always diverting, their collaboration on the private-eye film "Chinatown," set in Los Angeles in 1947, is both engrossing and interesting.

But I found it more contrived than suspenseful and too heavily structured with sub-plots and overtones to be really spellbinding.

The thought "My God, what next" came into my mind too frequently to make relishing this paraody of the detective genre any more than a labored take-off.

Stylish though it is, with the authenticity of fender cars, fedora hats and marcelled hair on a cool and enigmatic Faye Dunaway mystery woman, the labyrinthian case that pits Nicholson as a cynical and disillusioned former police officer against his former department colleagues in a murder case that isn't even apparent until well into the tangled plot, isn't the least bit frightening. But it is off-beat with incest the plum in a pie of unsolved riddles that includes every twisted angle ever to bait a Sam Spade or Philip Marlowe approach to professional investigative spying.

Nicholson is tough, cool and inquisitive. It earns him a slit nostril from the knife wielding Polanski in a cameo role. John Huston is at his grinning, cajoling, sly best as a tycoon too rich and powerful for the law to touch and the lascivious father of a neurotic and psychopathic lying daughter, Faye Dunaway, who looks smashing throughout in elegant late Thirties costumes by Anthea Sylbert.

Put to a disadvantage by having to wear a nose bandage through much of the intricate plot, Nicholson is still the master of the caustic bluff, the monotone put-down that insults with matter-of-factness and puts off his enemies with detached arrogance.

The story by Robert Towne who adapted "The Last Detail" for Nicholson's advantage in the lead role borrows heavily on other literary and cinematic private investigators. J. J. Gittes is cynical and cool, slipping in and out of danger with the same sophisitication as he does into a suspected lady-killer's bed. He can protect a client and turn her in to the enforcement officers with the same casual air as he can steal a piece of evidence or slip out of a dangerous entrapment. And he never seems to need food or sleep.

But for all its personality, the film is a bland fabrication and one that tears apart at the seams before the fabric is tested against the elements of good drama and suspense.

Everyone is handsome and affluent. They all operate from a position of power. The political corruption and land swindles that involve the withdrawal of the water supply to needy drought areas and then buying up orchard and desert property when the market has hit dry bottom is nothing new as a device to pit the good guys against the bad.

Identified

The body of an elderly, grey haired woman which has lain in the county morgue since she collapsed in Daly City July 19 was finally identified last week.

According to Chief Coroner's Investigator Robert Cole, she was identified through a savings box key as Mrs. Lillie M. Fifer, 68, of San Francisco.

According to Cole, women in the coroner's office telephoned some 20 banks before they finally determined a woman answering the dead woman's description had a safety deposit box at the Valencia-Mission branch of the Crocker Bank in San Francisco.

TV Cables Will Be Removed

Cables on the Jefferson Elementary School District property at JFK, Thomas Edison, and FDR apparently will be removed by the Vista Grande Cable Television Company. That revelation was made by the company's manager, Spence Wood.

Prveiously, it had been suggested that Vista Grande pay the school district in return for permission to have the lines on its property. But Wood maintained that he didn't want to start a precedent of paying for easements.

Tips to Make Bicycling Safer

The California Office of Traffic Safety has proclaimed July and August 1974 as a two-month period during which Phase VI of the California Safety Awarensss Program, focusing on Bicycle Safety, is to be in effect.

Statewide statistics disclosed 113 bicyclists were killed and 10,679 injured during 1973.

The State, as well as the Daly City Police Department, are interested in making bicycle riding as safe and pleasurable as possible.

Daly City Police said the following rules, if followed, should enhance the pleasure of bike riding and prevent injury.

—Keep your bicycle in good mechanical condition (tires, chains, brakes, etc.)

—Walk your bike across busy intersections.

—Obey all traffic rules and signs — Always give proper arm signals.

—Always ride with the traffic 8 as close as possible to the right hand side of the road.

—Be sure the roadway is clear before entering.

—Always ride single file and watch for opening car doors.

—Most bicycles are built to carry only one person — you.

—If you must ride your bike at night, be sure headlights and reflectors are in good working order.

—Select the safest route to your destination.

—Yield the right-of-way to pedestrians.

To further add to bicycle riding pleasure, the following rules will minimize possibility of your bicycle being stolen.

Whenever you lock your bike in a public place, chain it to a secure rack or stanchion, through the frame and a wheel. Keep the chain as high above the ground as the bike will allow. This reduces the leverage for a pry bar or bolt cutter attack.

—A good chain is made of hardened steel alloy and is at least 9/32" in diameter. The links must be of continuous welded construction. Lighter chain or a chain with an open link construction will not withstand attack by a bolt cutter.

—Padlocks come in different sizes, varieties and price ranges. Economizing on a lock will not afford you the protection you need. The most common assault on padlocks is with a large bolt cutter or pry bar. The following description which you can take to your local hardware store or locksmith, should be considered the minimum standard for an exterior padlock. a. The shackle should be 9/32" in diameter and should be made of hardened steel. b. It should have a double locking mechanism, heel and toe.

—To aid in recovery of your bike, should it be stolen, Daly City Police urge you to register your bike at the station on any Saturday between 9 a.m. and noon. The fee is one dollar.

Pacifica Balks at Pact on Firehouse

Pacifica city councilmen have balked at an agreement with Daly City architect Albert R. Seyranian to design a $350,000 firehouse at White Field, south of Linda Mar Boulevard.

"I'm very concerned with awarding a contract to an architect to whom I have never talked," Councilman Stanley Farber objected.

He explained he wanted to be sure the architect was qualified to build a firehouse, and that he would design one that would be utilitarian, not a "monument."

Fire Chief Cal Hinton and City Manager Dave Thompson later commented they had misunderstood the council's intent in telling them to go ahead with the project.

Pacifica City Manager Quits

David J. Thompson resigned last week as city manager of Pacifica to become city manager of Manhattan Beach, near the Los Angeles Airport.

Thompson's resignation, announced last Tuesday afternoon by Mayor Aubrey M. Lumley III, is effective Oct. 1. Thompson told the City Council his reason was purely economic. Paifica pays him $27,000 a year. Manhattan Beach offered him $32,000 a year.

Last year, Thompson negotiated with the union, but this year an outside negotiator was hired.

Thompson has been city manager since Nov. 1, 1972. Before that, he was Manhattan Beach's city engineer. He was Pacifica's city engineer from May 1, 1968 to Oct. 1, 1971.

The City Council must decide how to pick a successor to Thompson, and who will be acting manager if they fail to select a permanent one by Oct. 1.

Leding candidate for the post is Norman C. Rubel, public works department director.

In a press release announcing Thompson's resignation, Lumley paid tribute to Thompson's service:

"Dave has led the city staff through some very difficult times and always with the vigor and attitude which has been reflected in the many projects one sees around the City of Pacifica — projects that Dave has been involved with since the beginning — first a city engineer/director of public works and, most recently, as city manager.

Lumley also announced the City Council already is advertising for a replacement.

Site Is Ill-Suited for Development

S. San Francisco's Sign Hill Plan Doomed?

A major planned development of Sign Hill apparently will be scrapped and a $36,000 grant for the project lost as a result of a comprehensive report that found the site to be ill-suited for the venture.

The Design Development Report, authorized by the South San Francisco City Council and conducted by Recreation Systems, Inc., was presented to the Park and Recreation Commission Thursday night. Although the report was in preliminary form, its overall impact won't change substantially in the final version.

⅔The severe topography and rugged geological structure of Sign Hill Park drastically limit the feasibility of physical alteration of the site.

⅔The Park does not possess the unique features which would classify it as an attraction.

⅔The probable costs were compiled without allowing for trails, landscape enhancement, offstreet parking, picnicking or interpretive display.

⅔Sign Hill Park is located near the northern limits of South San Francisco, and its 50 acres are visible from most parts of the city. The hill gets it name from the sign on the slope which identifies South City.

The city applied to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for federal funding to develop Sign Hill Park in 1972. A grant was approved by HUD based on a total project cost of $76,000. Half of that amount was to be provided by the city.

The approved application was to include the establishment of trails for hiking and bicycling; construction of an irrigation and sprinkler system; preservation of key open space lands; development of a municipal park; and building of parking, access roads, restrooms, and picnic facilities.

However, these improvements were shattered by the council-authorized report.

Although no formal decision was made by the surprised commissioners, they indicated that the original Sign Hill program funded through the grant was doomed.

Thus, even if the commission wishes to alter the plan so at least some improvements were made, the whole grant may have to be applied for again.

The development was to begin Jun 7 and be finished Nov. 7.

Chairman James Morton said he wanted to read over the report in full before making a final decision, but admitted that it "looks like there's not much choice."

Commissioner Lura Sellick said, "It's quite clear that the original plan is not appropriate."

Park Mall Site for New Library?

New County Librarian James Buckley was to recommend yesterday to the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors that a 60,000 square foot site be acquired at the Park Mall Shopping Center at Oddstad and Terra Nova Boulevards, for a new Pacifica library.

A group of city and county officials toured the seven sites under consideration July 22. They included Supervisors Jean Fassler, James V. Fitzgerald and William Royer, Mayor Aubrey Lumley, Councilwoman Janice Fulford and Councilman Sidney Lorvan. A luncheon meeting at Nick's Restaurant followed.

The recommended library site is the subject of an application by Challenge Homes for a rezoning, from commercial to townhouse development. The site was praised by Buckley as being near to a shopping center, providing good visibility from the street, having heavy student pedestrian traffic from three schools and providing adequate space for a building 10,000 to 12,000 square feet, plus the needed parking.

Cost of buying the site and developing it is estimated at $136,000.

The new library is needed to replace the present county library in the Linda Mar shopping center. The present library has no children's room, and inadequate space for books, study, research or community activities.

Also under consideration are two other sites at Park Mall — one on the southwest corner of Oddstad and Terra Nova Boulevard and the other on the east side of Oddstad.

Also inspected were the St. Peter's Church site, which at $70,000 is the least expensive to purchase, the Pillar of Fire School, the Malavear property at Linda Mar Boulevard and Sheila, and the Sanchez Adobe.

The latter already had been chosen once, and is already county-owned. However, finding architectural relics on the site has ruled out building on the land. The Malavear property would entail relocating two families and demolishing buildings, and was thus ruled out.

There is some $600,000 budgeted for capital improvements for the county library, although $450,000 is earmarked for the Pacifica facility.

Supervisors OK Storm Drain Go-Ahead in RC

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors decided Tuesday that the county will go ahead with the Sequoia tract storm drainage project south of Redwood City, excluding Atherton.

However, if Atherton, which reneged on its original joint powers delegation to the county as a participant in the project, wants to join at a future date it's going to cost the town a "buy in" fee estimated at about $182,000.

In its action Tuesday, the board decided that the county will advance Atherton's share of the 700-acre, $1.3 million project to get the work underway.

Atherton, which originally had expressed willingness to join the assessment district to finance the project, changed its mind following an overwhelming protest of town residents at a recent town council meeting.

County Engineer S. H. Cantwell recommended to the Board of Supervisors that it proceed with the project, provided that Atherton pay its pro-rata cost of engineering and other fees to date. The total is about $31,000, of which Atherton owes $12,400.

A petition bearing signatures of 342 residents of the unincorporated area was submitted to the board in favor of proceeding with the project.

In his report to the board, Cantwell noted that the county entered into a cooperative program with Atherton a few years ago, paying a $300,000 contribution towards the Atherton Channel Drainage District. When reminded of this when it was considering withdrawal from the Sequoia tract project, the council declined to consider past favors.

Cantwell said the storm drain problems in the Sequoia tract are so serious "that they should not . . . go uncorrected any longer."

The county will install extra oversizing on drains to accommodate Atherton runoff. However, if future development in Atherton necessitates that expansion of storm drains contributing to the Sequoia tract runoff, Atherton will be expected to pay its share in connecting to the county project, Cantwell said.

Cantwell reported that it will be "one more rainy season" before the project is constructed.

The area included in the project is bounded by Woodside Road, Atherton Avenue, West Selby Lane and the ridge line above Alameda de las Pulgas.

Board Receives Check To Buy Redwood Site

A check for $57,063, representing 3,000 contributions, was presented to the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors Tuesday towards purchase of the 36½-acre Holmes property, site of a 10-acre stand of heritage redwood trees.

Mrs. Anne Radwell, of La Honda, who headed the drive to secure the funds, presented the check on behelf of the Peninsula Conservation Foundation. With funds already on hand from the San Mateo Foundation, the private contributions toward purchase of the property total $64,000.

The board voted three weeks ago to proceed with acquisition of the property at a cost of $190,000. The property is situated on the south side of Alpine Road one mile east of Pescadero Road.

The check for the private contributions was not ready at that time and was presented at Tuesday's meeting.

It was agreed by the board in accepting the check that there will be no commercial logging on the property, although the Peninsula Conservation Foundation said it would not protest "good forest management practices" should such dictate the thinning of some trees from the property.

EVERY BIT HELPS
A check written on a piece of eucalpytus bark is displayed by Bank of California, San Bruno, branch manager R. G. Heddy. It was deposited by Mary Self, of the Committee to Keep Sneath Lane a Lane. The check was mailed from Iowa.

Sneath Fund Growing

Contributions to pay for a bond to support an injunction to halt widening of San Bruno's Sneath Lane are coming all the way from Iowa.

Last week the Committee to Keep Sneath Lane a Lane, plaintiffs in a suit to stop the city from beginning work on the project, received a check for $50 from Paul James of Woodbine, Iowa.

The check was written tastefully on a piece of eucalyptus bark by the father of Mary Self, a member of the committee. She explaned that in her father's town trees are being destroyed because they are diseased and that he wanted to contribute to any effort to save trees which are marked for destruction for no apparent ecological reason.

According to the city's plans to widen Sneath Lane, some eucalyptus trees will have to be destroyed.

The unique check, desposited in the committee's account at the Bank of California at Camino Plaza, is part of the almost $3,000 the committee has raised so far to pay for the bond.

Superior Court Judge Howard Hartley has issued a preliminary injunction prohibiting the city from soliciting bids for the project. Enforcement of the injunction is contingent on the posting of a $5,000 bond, forfeitable in the event the committee does not secure a judgement in its favor.

Judge Hartley has set no deadline for posting of the bond, but San Bruno City Atty. Joseph Galligan said he will request that a deadline be established.

According to committee member Gary Mondfrans, the group is stepping up its efforts to raise the money to pay for the bond "as soon as possible."

Mondfrans said members of the committee will continue to walk door-to-door in all neighborhoods in San Bruno asking for contributions. So far most contributions have come from persons residing in the immediate area that will be affected by the widening.

Inflation Major Concern

Inflation, according to surveys by the National Federation of Independent Business, is the prime concern today of the independent business operator.

But the business people give the government very low marks on handling the problems of either inflation or escalating interest rates.

The date from the continuous field survey of the NFIB for May with approximately 12,000 respondents participating shows that only 5.3 per cent of the respondents think government is doing an effective job in combating inflation, with 77.1 per cent saying it is doing a bad job, and the balance undecided.

Among those who can be presumed to know money matters best, the people who run the independent finance firms, 84 per cent feel government efforts in this area quite lacking.

While as perhaps to be expected, sentiment against government actions in controlling inflation is higher than the national average in the New England states where 80.6 per cent of the Down East business people feel government attempts are not productive, in the Mountain States the sentiment is even higher with 85.3 per cent condemning government efforts. In the Pacific States the vote against the government policies is almost as high at 84.4 per cent.

Volunteer comments by respondents indicate that the independent business people are quite impartial in placing the blame for inflation and high interest rates.

The owner of an Iowa mortuary claims, "I think the biggest problem we have today is inflation and the worry of our politicians getting re-elected. I feel quite certain that many of our politicians are voting for laws that are inflationary or perhaps against the general public interest simply because they are lacking in the fortitude to vote against it."

A Florida business owner takes this position, "From what is being published it appears Nixon is making no effort to hold down spending for the upcoming year. Traditionally, the President has urged restraint and the Congress has acted without restraint on budgeting and funding. Without even lip service being given the idea of operating the government on an even financial keel it appears things will get even further out of hand if the responsibility is left to Congress.

"Maximum pressure should be exerted to influence the cutting of budgets and not authorizing spending above income. At some points perhaps even Representatives and Senators will realize that 90 per cent of inflation is government fueled by overspending. Scream for fiscal responsibility during this election year."

A Texas business owner is even more impartially vehement saying, "The country is in very poor condition, due I believe, to a lack of honesty on the part of our leaders. Mr. Nixon is bad. He chose bad helpers. But the Ervin committee and Congress are no better. We have a complete lack of integrity in our government. We must remove them and get back to a basic honesty and concern, and we had better do it soon."

A Massachusetts jeweler expresses this belief, "I do not feel that anything can be done until the President is relieved of his office. Personally had I been elected and had received the private contributions that were received from big business, I too would probably let them run amuck with the country as he has done."

But the head of a Missouri savings and loan firm places the blame on the Congress saying, "The Congress must reorganize to control spending and must accept the idea of restricting total spending to available revenues, to eliminate deficit budgets and actually must eventually begin operating at a surplus and start reducing our national debt. This is the best thing they can do to stop inflation. Congress cannot continue to put the blame for inflation on the Administration and leave the burden of fighting inflation to the Federal Reserve Board."

This viewpoint is echoed by a Connecticut retailer who says, "My feeling is that the present Congress is not doing its job. They are not controlling inflation. They are on the side of the oil companies allowing them to do what they please. They are anti-business in relation to the small businessman. I would not vote to put one Congressman back in office."

The owner of a Georgia service firm claims, "Inflation can only be controlled by controlled spending of the government. Stop the foreign give-aways — you can't buy friends with dollars. Stop waste at home. Give away the Panama Canal? How stupid can you get?" The owner of an Ohio printing plant comments, "More time is needed on tax and bank legislation. Interest rates and lending procedures of banks are killing the small business from growing and adding employees.

Millbrae Budget

GRAND OPENING

Now you can own a garden condominium in Palo Alto for $32,950.

If you find that hard to believe, wait until you see these new homes. Two and three bedroom beauties that have been designed and arranged so that the sun-decks and windows open to the lush landscaping, not the street.

The Greenhouse has everything—plush carpeting, draperies, quality appliances, private garage, swimming pool, modern clubhouse, professionally maintained landscaping—everything, but a high price.

And if you need another reason to move, ask about our financing. We have loan money available at a rate substantially lower than the prime rate. When you put it altogether the Greenhouse is simply the perfect place, perfectly placed.

DISPLAY CLASSIFIED 721—MILLBRAE HEIGHTS

The best view in this $80,000 neighborhood costs $57,500.

And you can purchase it at 8-3/4%.* Impossible? Not now, but it soon will be as these three bedroom view condominiums atop the Mills Estate property will probably be sold out within a month. The reason—everything is here except the high price tag.

The view is the best on the North Peninsula. Your private balcony gives you a panoramic view of the Peninsula and San Francisco Bay. Above it all, and close to everything. Easy access to Highways 101, 280, and the train station make commuting a snap.

The space inside is as beautiful as the space outside. Plush carpeting, draperies, oven, range, refrigerator, washer/dryer, dishwasher, and fireplace are all included. The recreation center, swimming pool, and saunas are ready for summer.

The time to move up to Millbrae Heights is now. When these are sold, that's it. Three bedrooms, two baths, from $57,500. Ready for immediate occupancy.

By Alpha Land Company, naturally.
